INDUSTRY MAY BE AFFECTED BY NEW ORDER

Washington (CNA)—What appears on the surface to be a routine executive order may ultimately prove one of the most valuable aids to the expansion of business in America.

By a stroke of the pen President Hoover has made available to designated officers of the department of commerce all the income tax returns now reposing in the files of the treasury department. It means that the commerce department will now be able to examine the returns without restraint and furnish important information as to the trends of business not only within particular industries but in geographical areas as well as cities.

All the returns will be kept confidential, of course, insofar as they relate to an individual or particular firm or corporation, but the collective information produced from the study of returns will be published.

Thus it will be possible to find out how many units there are in every industry, how much money they make annually and what the factor of unemployment may be. Each business for example, gives the total amount paid in wages and salaries, by comparison from one year to another the commerce department will have exact data as to the diminution of employment in one industry and the increase in another.

MAY AFFECT TARIFF

Future tariff discussions may be affected by a knowledge of what is happening in every industry. The senate finance committee recently called for the income tax returns of certain businesses which were affected by the tariff but it was conceded that the job of analyzing the returns was overwhelming. No comparisons were available with past years and it was necessary in order to form a judgment to get an item by item comparison in course of production.

Obviously the treasury department does not have available statistical experts for the huge task of analysis and comparison which must be

Committee Approves Schneider Bill to Survey Reservation for Park

(Post-Crescent Wash. Bureau)

Washington—The House committee on public lands today voted to report favorably the Schneider bill authorizing a survey to determine the feasibility of making a national park of the six eastern townships of the Menominee Indian reservation.

The bill, introduced by Rep. Schneider of Wisconsin, with the approval of Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, recommended the passage of the survey bill, which was introduced by Rep. George J. Schneider of Appleton.

C. J. Rhoads, commissioner of Indian affairs, also in the department of the interior, opposed the bill saying in a letter placed before the committee.

"Considering all of the factors entering into this proposition, we would be opposed to any movement to reduce the land and timber holdings of the Menominee Indians."

The timber resources of the six eastern townships are essential to the continued operation of the lumber mill at Neopit, he said, and a reduction in the available timber might result in closing the mill, reducing the opportunity of the Indians to earn a living.

The Wisconsin Power and Light company holds a preliminary permit for the construction of five power dams on the Wolf river in this part of the reservation.

Rep. Schneider appeared before the committee in behalf of the bill, stating that it provides only for a survey, that it does not contemplate taking the land from the Indians without adequate compensation and describing the beauties of the reservation, its falls lakes, streams and virgin pine forests.

192 LOSE LIVES WHEN SHIP SINKS IN RIVER

Calcutta, Gengal, India—(P)—One hundred and ninety-two passengers aboard the steamer Condor lost their lives when that ship sank in the River Jamuna in eastern Bengal, the ships owners said today. Only eighteen of the passengers were saved.

The disaster occurred about 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon during a severe storm. The ship at the time was in an isolated district, from which news of its loss traveled slowly. It is now lying in about three fathoms of water.

The Condor was carrying mail from Serajgang Ghat to Goolundo. No trace of the postal officials or mail bags has been found. The ship belongs to the River Steam Navigation company. It was built in 1897 and rebuilt in 1926. It left Calcutta last month after being overhauled.

REPORT OF PRIESTS' MURDER UNCONFIRMED

Peiping, China—(P)—The British legation here issued a statement today that there had been no confirmation of reports from Shanghai that two Irish priests imprisoned by bandits who captured the town of Santiaochan had been murdered.

The priests names were given as Fathers P. Laffan from County Limerick, and J. Lineham, from County Cork. Both priests were attached to the St. Columban mission, Han yang, province of Hupeh.

APPROVAL IS IN DOUBT, HIS FRIENDS SAY

Borah Resumes Attack on Nominee to United States Supreme Court

Washington—(P)—Heartened by the belief that prospects were better for the confirmation of Judge John J. Parker as a supreme court justice, his friends in the senate today heard Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, resume his attack on the nominee.

Overnight developments led supporters of Judge Parker to feel that his chances were better, although it was yet felt the result would be extremely close.

Borah today again centered his attacks on Parker's ruling upholding an injunction in which the "yellow dog" contract was involved.

Judge Parker today telegraphed a denial of published reports that he had withheld evidence favorable to defendants in a war frauds case he prosecuted while assistant attorney general.

Sensors Gillett, Massachusetts, and Hastings, Delaware, Republicans, challenged Borah's contentions.

Senator Gillett insisted that Parker was not committed to the position that the "yellow dog" contract cannot be broken even by peaceful persuasion. He and Hastings insisted Parker had been bound by the supreme court.

Senator Overman, Democrat, North Carolina, had the Parker telegram read to the senate. Senator Black, Democrat, Alabama, yesterday denounced Parker's charge as untrue. Senator Overman also read to the senate messages received from the court which tried the war frauds case and from other attorneys in that case assailing the charge against Parker was false.

"This statement is absolutely and unqualifiedly false," Judge Parker telegraphed.

Fire Rages In New U. S. Forest Area

Washburn—(P)—Rain helped today to control a forest fire burning in a barren section of the new Moquah national forest near here. Although the flames spread into a large area, federal workers were not alarmed. They said little timber of value had been destroyed; in fact, the area was one they "wanted" burned so that it could be replanted. The flames were discovered Saturday and believed under control that night. They broke out again Sunday, and spread.

Nearly 100 men were detailed to patrol duty.

Washburn—(P)—Fire raged today in the new federal forest track in Bayfield, known as Moquah forest. State and federal forces co-operated in an effort to control it.

Federal Warden Donald Ball came in at midnight and said that the fire was getting worse. He slept less than three hours and returned to the lines about 3 o'clock a. m.

The flames were discovered about seven miles west of here Saturday, almost simultaneously with receipt of news from Washington that the 15,000 acre tract had been taken over. Saturday night, they were believed under control.

A freshening southwest wind whipped up the smoldering fire yesterday and by night it was far worse than it had been Saturday.

Today, nearly 100 men fought the conflagration. The burning area included a tangled slash where a tornado swept across the "barrens" four or five years ago, and in this area the men could make little headway.

Four Additional Companies of Guardsmen Sent to Penitentiary

SEIZED GUARDS FREED

Prompt Action Halts Prisoners and Restores Order at Columbus

BULLETIN

Columbus, Ohio—(P)—Seven men condemned to death who were confined in the white city death house of Ohio penitentiary, were freed from their cells last night by revolting convicts. It became known this afternoon. Three of those awaiting execution were recaptured today, after guards had fired into the white city. Four others were being sought in the cell block.

Columbus, Ohio—(P)—Revolting convicts in the white city or idle house at Ohio penitentiary, scene of the disastrous fire, were fired upon today by prison guards when they made a concerted effort to escape from the cell blocks. The mutineers were driven back from the doors leading to the main entrance by automatic rifle fire. Several convicts were wounded.

When the mass of convicts made their break for liberty they attempted to gain entrance to the guard room. Bullets drove them back. Then the convicts held several guards as prisoners for a short time, but released them when national guard officers threatened to enter the white city and rescue the men.

Glass in the guard room door and in small windows of the cell block was shattered by the convicts. Guards such as were shot and killed. Ordered by the warden to go back to their cells, the convicts continued their rush. They retreated at the first burst of firing, but a moment later had remanned and made a second rush. Automatic rifles spat bullets into the mob, and this time they fell back and took refuge in the cell block.

Four additional companies of guardsmen were ordered to the penitentiary. Company A, Marietta; Company B, Macon; L, of Athens, and a howitzer platoon, armed with one pounders from Ironton. There are now 500 national guardsmen at the prison.

NIGHT IS QUIET

The shooting followed a night and morning of comparative quiet within the prison walls. A hot quarrel after the guards had sent bullets streaming into the idle house through small windows and peep holes, the convicts had quieted down, and prison attendants ordered guards into the cell blocks to make an inspection.

The break for liberty came shortly after national guardsmen started a section of a barred wire stretched in the prison yard, in which it was proposed to build the revolvers until the hundreds of cell blocks had been repaired. The mutineers heretofore had continued their activities to "passive resistance" against the warden ship of Preston E. Thomas. They had been in revolt since the fire, when 220 convicts were killed by fire and smoke Monday night a week ago.

Covered by a machine gun, Col. Haubrich, Ohio National guard, went to the idle house doorway and conversed with three convicts. They reported that practically all the prisoners had taken refuge in their cells, and that all was now quiet within the block.

Columbus police reserves, summoned when the disorder started, were to clear all the streets in the vicinity of the penitentiary.

PLACEMENT MACHINE GUNS

All prison guards in the guard room were ordered removed and were replaced with national guardsmen, who were armed with machine guns, automatic rifles, side arms and tear gas bombs.

National guard officers said martial law had not been declared, but that the situation would take charge of the situation, in accordance with Governor Cooper's orders to put down the revolt and restore order. Warden Thomas said Col. Haubrich was in command within the walls.

Col. Haubrich then announced "we are going to run things here. We intend to take the convicts out to eat shortly, and then they will return to their cells."

One prisoner, doctors said, was probably fatally wounded. Dr. George W. Kyle, penitentiary physician, ordered him removed from the prison to a Columbus hospital. He was taken out under prison guard.

The effective putting down of the revolt was demonstrated at the noon-day meal time, less than two hours after the shooting when the mutinous convicts were lined up between state troops and forced to march in orderly fashion to the mess halls.

A machine gun mounted on the chapel building, where Col. Haubrich established national guard headquarters surveyed the marching prisoners and kept them in line.

Committee Approves Schneider Bill to Survey Reservation for Park

(Post-Crescent Wash. Bureau)

Washington—The House committee on public lands today voted to report favorably the Schneider bill authorizing a survey to determine the feasibility of making a national park of the six eastern townships of the Menominee Indian reservation.

The bill, introduced by Rep. Schneider of Wisconsin, with the approval of Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, recommended the passage of the survey bill, which was introduced by Rep. George J. Schneider of Appleton.

Farmer Shot Dead; Posse Hunts Slayer

Alma Center—(P)—Shot down while he begged for mercy, George Casper, a farmer near here, died shortly after midnight today. Henry Maletts is sought by a posse as his slayer. He is believed to be hiding in the tangled swamplands around Merrillan Junction.

The cause of the affair, authorities were told, was a dispute over Casper's housekeeper, Putz Westerlund. She is Maletts' niece.

The woman said she and Casper came home to the farm, three miles from here, at 10:30 last night, and found the house dark. When they turned on the lights, they found Maletts sitting on the divan with a gun on his knees.

Casper went down on his knees and begged for mercy, according to the woman. She said Maletts' answer was a shot. Casper fell fatally wounded and died during the night.

The lights went out again and she was struck over the head. When she recovered consciousness, Maletts was gone. She ran to the farm of Herman Buttkie, a neighbor, who called officers.

The territory in which Maletts is believed to be hiding is called the "Bad Lands" locally. It is swampy and low, with few roads, and extends into Jackson and Woodcos.

More than 50 men centered their search for the man in an area a mile south of Merrillan. Bloodhounds were ordered brought from Madison.

The sheriff said Maletts fled without his coat or shoes. His footprints could be plainly traced as far as the Opasha road tracks.

POSSES HUNT SLAYER OF THREE RANCH HANDS

Modesto, Calif.—(P)—Armed posses today were seeking an apparently crazed slayer who shot and killed three men yesterday and then disappeared after waiting for nearly two hours for someone to arrest him.

The killer is believed to be an itinerant who was working on ranches in this vicinity for the last four months under the name of Jack Crowley.

His victims, all ranch hands, were identified as Jack Murphy, alias Jacques Fornier, 40; Deloche C. Fultz, 35; and Joseph Barton, 45. Barton's body was found in the doorway of his shack 300 yards from a cabin where the bodies of Murphy and Fultz were discovered in their bunks.

The shooting occurred early yesterday. The killer, carrying a rifle and bearing marks of a struggle, told a filling station attendant of the crimes. Officers were called, but they did not arrive, the man walked into nearby underbrush.

Blaine, who led an attack against the leasing system on the senate floor, added that he planned to confer soon with a member of the comptroller general's staff to make plans for organizing the assistant personnel of the committee.

"The comptroller is vitally interested in this matter in connection with his own work," Blaine said, and no doubt he will give us active assistance."

Blaine added that his staff expected to include special investigators from the comptroller general's forces.

"I will see that the very able suggestion you make is brought before the conference," President Hoover wrote Gettelman.

Madisonville, Ky.—(P)—The homes of two miners at Nortonville, ten miles south of here, were dynamited at dawn today. Reports reaching here were that no one was injured.

The homes were occupied by the family of Bailey Keith, white and a Negro family whose name could not be learned. Both homes were damaged. It was reported here that Keith and the Negro had been working at the Norton coal company mine at Halsey since the Nortonville mine was closed down.

Approximately 4,000 miners in western Kentucky are out of work as a result of independent strikes and shut downs. The dynamiting is the first major disorder reported so far. On other occasions miners have been stoned on their way to work.

FREE MEALS STILL CENTER OF ATTACK

Defense Busy Trying to Prove Kohler Used Village to Win Voters

Sheboygan—(P)—The "free meals" served visitors to the "model village" of Kohler during the 1928 primary campaign of Gov. Walter, came in for renewed scrutiny today at his court trial.

Some 50 exhibits from 14 bulky ledgers of the Kohler company were introduced to support the prosecution's assertion that the millionaire governor used his village and manufacturing plant to sway voters.

On one item, prosecutor Harold Wilkie said there was a difference of approximately $200 between the amount charged the governor's sister for meals to women voters, and that given on the books.

Examining Anton Braun, who played the role of "silent witness" on the stand, Wilkie brought out that one account book the initials "O. K. W. K." and "M. Braun, chief accountant of the Kohler company, believed the "M" stood for George Meyer, the governor's private secretary. What the item concerned was not revealed, and later Judge Gustave Gehrz refused to admit it in the evidence until there was further identification.

Braun went on the stand at 9 o'clock a. m. and was still on when a noon recess was taken. He rarely was called on as the prosecution introduced exhibit after exhibit, although he occasionally was asked to identify items.

Los Angeles—(P)—The confession signed by Otto Sanhuber, 35, who is under joint indictment with Mrs. Wallingford Oesterreich for the slaying of her husband, Fred Oesterreich, retired Milwaukee garment manufacturer, was made public today by prosecuting authorities.

Sanhuber recounted his meeting with Mrs. Oesterreich in Milwaukee when he was 16 years old and the growth of their friendship. He said he had courted her for years and offered to permit him to live in the Oesterreich home at 191 E. Broadway place, although her husband objected. He built an attack compartment in the house and lived there, getting his food by nocturnal raids on the kitchen, where Mrs. Oesterreich left scraps for him.

The confession related that when the Oesterreich family moved to Los Angeles in 1925, Sanhuber followed them and watched them leave the train from a hidden vantage point. They moved into a house in St. Andrews place, and he went there and built another cubbyhole in the attic.

The confessed slayer told of his former existence in the Oesterreich home, and of how he had heard Mr. and Mrs. Oesterreich come home together and start quarreling.

"I was standing in the upper hall, I don't know how I got down stairs. It was her scream, and he was grunting when I arrived."

Sanhuber said he shot once and then fled with Oesterreich after him. "The manufacturer caught him at the door and in the struggle for the pistol, Sanhuber said he fired three times more."

The confession related that Sanhuber then led Mrs. Oesterreich up stairs to a closet door, where he begged her to save him.

There is only one reason why I could help you. You didn't mean to do it."

"Cigar Trust" Broken By Supreme Court's Ruling

RESTRAINT OF TRADE FOUND IN "COMBINE"

"Josephson Agency Plan" Found Violation of Badger Anti-Trust Laws

Madison —(P)—The state of Wisconsin, through a decision of the state supreme court, today smashed what it termed a "cigar trust" in Milwaukee.

The supreme court sustained a decision by Circuit Judge Charles L. Adams, Milwaukee, overruling a demurrer by Lewis and Loidersdorf company, Milwaukee, the General Cigar company, Inc., and the G. H. P. Cigar company, Inc., the defendants.

In the state's prosecution of the case, it charged that the defendants were "combining and conspiring among themselves with the intention of restraining trade and preventing competition."

About Jan. 1, 1927 the Lewis company inaugurated the "Josephson Agency plan" which the state charged was in violation of the Wisconsin anti-trust law. In consideration of a discount, Milwaukee retailers of cigars, especially drug stores and building stands, were induced, under the agency plan, to enter into exclusive-dealing contracts with the Lewis company. By the terms of the agreement retailers were required to purchase all cigars, cigarettes, pipes and smokers' articles from the Lewis company and to handle only such brands of cigars as were furnished by the Lewis company and to display the brands only in a manner specified by the company.

State's counsel alleged that the Lewis company gave retailers special discounts on candy, fountain supplies and other commodities as an inducement to enter into exclusive-dealing contracts. The cigars handled by the General and G. H. P. companies had the "best seller" status and the state argued that a dealer who did not enter the exclusive-dealing contracts could not obtain these cigars and therefore was put at a disadvantage.

SOLD AT DISCOUNT

The state companies, contrary to their established policy of selling cigars at wholesale to retailers sold through their branch houses, sold to the Lewis company certain brands of cigars at a discount sufficient to permit the latter company to resell for a profit under the exclusive-dealing contracts, the state charged.

The state also charged that the cigar companies permitted the Lewis company to sell cigars to retailers at a lower price than that which retailers pay for the same brand of cigars to the cigar companies. The cigar companies, according to the state, agreed not to solicit dealers having a contract with the Lewis company.

More than 170 retail stores or stands in Milwaukee are controlled by the Lewis company, the state said. This, it was argued, had the effect of destroying a greater part of the business in cigars, cigarettes, tobacco and other smokers' articles formerly transacted by other manufacturers, wholesalers and jobbers with the retailers operating under the exclusive-dealing contract.

The restriction on displaying cigars other than those purchased through the Lewis company creates an unlawful monopoly for the Lewis and other companies," the state argued. A request that the Lewis company be permanently enjoined, restrained and prohibited from using the exclusive-dealing agreement and that under the Wisconsin anti-trust laws each defendant pay $5,000 and the costs of the action was made to the supreme court by state's counsel.

UPHOLDS SENTENCE

A judgment of $100 and a sentence of 30 days in the Fond du Lac jail was upheld by the supreme court today in the case of A. A. Polichinski, alias A. A. Smith.

Counsel for Polichinski brought the case to the court on a writ of error from the circuit court of Fond du Lac. Judgment and sentence had been made by a municipal court judge after Polichinski had been convicted of driving an auto while intoxicated. Circuit Judge Edward Voigt upheld the municipal court decision.

When Polichinski went on trial in May, 1929, he had no counsel. Before the trial he had engaged Clayton Van Pelt as his attorney but the appointment of Judge Van Pelt to the circuit court bench made him ineligible to act as counsel. Polichinski was denied a continuance and his present counsel contended that the municipal court judge abused his sound discretion when he refused to grant a continuance under the circumstances. Polichinski admitted being drunk but denied he was driving an auto.

TO SUE CHURCH

Through a decision by the supreme court today, Charles Wilson and his wife, Mary, won the right to sue the Evangelical Lutheran church of the Reformation, Milwaukee, for injuries Mrs. Wilson received in falling down a flight of church stairs.

The high court overruled a decision by Edward T. Fairchild, former circuit judge and now a supreme court justice, made Nov. 20, 1929, in which he agreed to a demurrer. Mrs. Wilson, a resident of Wauwatosa, fell down the church stairs following an organ recital. She charged the church was negligent in "failing to maintain a safe way of egress from the building." The demurrer held there was no grounds for action.

Mrs. Wilson asked $5,000 damages. Her husband sued for $1,000. The reported cost of hospital expenses, medical care, and nursing.

BEAM NEW TREASURER OF GRAIN CORPORATION

Chicago —(P)—Walter I. Beam of Chicago, today was appointed treasurer of the Farmers' National Grain corporation and assumed his new duties immediately.

The new treasurer formerly was controller of the U. S. Grain corporation throughout its wartime existence. Later he came to Chicago to represent a group of New York and Chicago banks to take charge of a group of grain companies then in financial difficulties and also became vice president and treasurer of the Nye-Jenks Grain company.

Mr. Beam's experience in the financing and operation of country and terminal elevators and in the exporting of grain has been unusually broad, the announcement of his appointment stated.

C. E. Huff, president of the corporation, said Mr. Beam had severed all his other business connections in assuming his new post. "His selection was made with the full understanding of his attitude toward the cooperative grain marketing movement, which is in full agreement with our own belief that the producer of agricultural products has the same right to market his product and the profits of marketing that is accorded the producer of any product in industry," Mr. Huff said.

MAKE PLANS FOR WASHINGTON TRIP

B. and O. Passenger Agent Confers Here With A. G. Meating

W. F. Christ, traveling passenger agent for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, which will carry more than 1,000 rural school graduates, their parents, teachers and friends to Washington, D. C., next June, was at a conference with A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools.

The special train carrying the county graduates to Washington will run over the Chicago and North-western railroad to Chicago. At Chicago it will be switched to the Baltimore and Ohio line over which it will run to Washington.

Mr. Christ and Mr. Meating have been working on the itinerary of the trip and the schedule for the big crowd in Washington, D. C. This will be completed in several days and made public by Mr. Meating. Arrangements have already been made for placing the excursion tickets on sale at the railroad office here several days before the trip, which starts June 11. All persons buying tickets must present "credentials" which are being prepared by Mr. Meating.

RIESE IS AGAIN NAMED PATROL SUPERINTENDENT

William Riese's appointment as patrol superintendent for Outagamie county was confirmed by the county highway committee Monday afternoon at the courthouse. Mr. Riese was appointed by Frank Appleton, highway commissioner. The committee also decided, following an inspection trip, not to make any improvement in the intersection of County Trunks A and O, just west of Mackville. The improvement would cost about $1,000 and the committee said it felt it did not have funds available for the work. A new store is being erected at this corner and the owner wanted the committee to widen the curve at the intersection.

Soviet Railroad Opening Resembles Rodeo In U.S.

Ainabulak, Kazakhstan Soviet Republic —(P)—The opening ceremonies of the new 1,700-mile Soviet railroad now in progress have had all the color of a gigantic rodeo of the American far west.

It was a momentous day in the Soviet union and was proclaimed a holiday. Tens of thousands of mounted Kazaks, Uzbeks, Kirghizians and other nomadic tribes of the Kazakhstan plains cheered as William Shatov, former Chicago anarchist and section head on the Erie railroad, yesterday drove the first train connecting the north and south sections of the first Soviet built railroad.

While red army airplanes circled overhead in the scorching noonday sun, Comrad Isayev, president of the Kazakhstan Republic, conferred the "Order of the Tearing Red Banner" upon Shatov, who was the leading Soviet executive in construction of the road.

Then admirers seized Shatov and bore him on their shoulders before cheering thousands, the band meanwhile playing the red Internationale. The American and foreign correspondents who arrived yesterday were most interested in the wandering tribesmen. These nomads and their families came from miles around on horseback and camel, by bullock, by van and foot, and after the railroad dedication gave a thrilling exhibition of their daring horsemanship.

The native Kazaks, who are almost wholly illiterate, appeared to view the invasion of their silent, mysterious wastes by a railroad with mingled awe and suspicion, for the camel and the horse have provided transportation in their almost limitless territory heretofore.

The native women and girls were given a thrill by Miss Mary Van Benschoten Cagwell, New York society girl, who represented a New

1,400 Letters Have Already Been Received In Suggestion Contest

Today the number of letters received by the Appleton Post-Crescent in the eight weeks it has conducted its On to Washington contest passed the 1,400 mark.

There is ample evidence that the boys and girls who are to graduate from the county rural and parochial schools are interested in that commencement trip to Washington, D. C., next June. There is ample evidence that they are not only interested in the trip but that they are working energetically to earn the necessary $25 to pay their own expenses.

FIVE STUDENTS IN SPEAKING CONTEST

Bolton-Roth Event Set for Thursday Eveninf at High School

Five senior high school students will take part in the first of the Bolton-Roth Extemporaneous contests in the high school auditorium Thursday evening. These contests are being sponsored in honor of the members of the high school class of 1928, Ted Bolton and Carlton Roth, who lost their lives in Lake Winnebago last fall.

On account of the fact that the contest is being sponsored by the senior and junior classes and the Tri-Square Girls Reserves organization, there will be no admission charge.

Special invitations will be sent to all members of the class of 1928 and special programs will be printed to mark the beginning of these contests, which will be annual events hereafter at the high school. During the program, music will be furnished by the class of '28.

Lila Locksmith, Ethel Schenk, Jacob Shierat, Karl Ek and Lawrence Osterhaus will take part in the contest. Each of these five students has been studying the January, February, March and April issues of current magazines. About an hour before the contest is to start each contestant will be given five topics from which he is to choose one upon which to speak.

The winner of the Bolton-Roth contest will represent Appleton high school in the Fox River Valley contest, scheduled at Appleton high school auditorium at 8 o'clock on April 8.

MENASHA BOY CHARGED WITH BEING DISORDERLY

A 16-year-old Menasha boy was to appear in juvenile court before Judge Fred V. Heinemann Tuesday afternoon to answer charges of disorderly conduct filed against him after his arrest early Tuesday morning by Fred Arndt, motorcycle officer. The boy was caught in the act of changing barbed wire and red lights on the west side of S. Memorial-dr. to the east side of that boulevard, police reported. He was accompanied by another Menasha youth and two Menasha girls. The officer was forced to chase the quartet almost to Menasha before he caught them. They fled as they saw the motorcycle approaching. The boy told the police they changed the barbed wire just to see the fun when the cars got on the wrong side of the street.

The street department is engaged in installing curbs along the west side of the boulevard and all traffic has been transferred to the east boulevard until the work is completed. Only one of the boys was arrested because he changed all the barbed wire and red lanterns without aid from the rest of the group, according to police.

NOMINATE 18 FOR U. S. COMMERCE CLUB

Directors Chosen by Geographical Divisions and Business Groups

Washington —(P)—The nomination of 18 business men as new directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, was announced today by the chamber.

Selection of the men was not finally decided until late last night, after an all day session of the national council of the chamber, gathered as part of the eighteenth annual meeting.

Since only 18 vacancies exist, nomination was considered virtually the same as an election.

Ten men were chosen as representatives of business by geographical division. They are:

Henry I. Harriman, Boston; Chester I. Barnard, New York; J. J. Wilbur, New York; W. W. Rorer, New York; Oscar Wells, Birmingham, Ala.; Frederick J. Haynes, Detroit; W. R. Dawes, Chicago; William C. Skelly, Tulsa, Okla.; William V. Hodges, Denver; Asa G. Briggs, St. Paul; Philip J. Fay, San Francisco.

Seven were selected as representatives from definite business groups. They are:

Fred Lazarus, Jr., Columbus, Ohio; Felix M. McWhirter, Indianapolis; Henry D. Jones, Providence, R. I.; Charles W. Gold, Greensboro, N. C.; Carl A. Johnson, Madison, Wis.; Harry C. Baill, New Orleans, La.; and Fred W. Sargent, Chicago.

Homer Gard of Hamilton, Ohio, was selected as representative on the board of the civic development department of the chamber.

Pays Tribute To Business For Trying To Level Path

U. S. Chamber of Commerce Head Praises Challenge to "Rule-of-thumb"

Washington —(P)—President William Butterworth of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, today paid tribute to American business for its challenge to the past six months to "rule-of-thumb" economics and its efforts to smooth out the valleys of the business cycle.

In his keynote address before the opening general session of the eighteenth annual meeting of the chamber, Butterworth said "American business has definitely broken new ground."

"Last fall," he said, "a critical situation arose which brought clearly into issue the question of whether the allied forces of business and industry, by a closer coordination of their courage and experience, could demonstrate that the wayward and flexible economic cycle could be straightened out into an orderly and harmonious progression."

"Through the forces of that mobilization are still being applied, already the first pages of a highly significant chapter of economic history have been written. New forces have boldly entered the field and challenged the rule-of-thumb control of economic conditions which has heretofore too generally prevailed."

Speaking of the facts gained and circulated by the comparatively recently established national business survey conference, under the chairmanship of Julius H. Barnes, Butterworth said:

"Through the medium of our chambers of commerce and our trade associations this vitalizing current is flowing into every part of the country, stimulating communities and individuals to grapple with present facts and with a comprehensive panorama of actualities before them, to plan intelligently for the future."

Turning next to possible future government regulation of business, Butterworth said he did not believe the public "would raise the hue and cry for reprisals which it abridges a legitimate business liberty, at least so long as the public realized business itself knew it was 'on good behavior.'"

STATE HIGH COURT REVERSES VERDICT IN AIRPLANE SUIT

Appeal from Decision Awarding $1,829 Damages to Local Man Is Won

The supreme court today reversed a decision by which Karl A. Gruenke, Appleton, had been awarded $1,829.84 by a jury in circuit court here for damage caused to his airplane when Elwin West, a transport pilot, crashed into it at the George A. Whitling airport.

Gruenke, who also is a pilot holding a transport license, sued the North American Airways company, whom the plaintiff alleged, was the employer of West. West was landing when he crashed into Gruenke's parked machine.

The owner of a building which catches fire from a moonshine still can recover insurance damages even though he might have no knowledge of the existence of the still, the supreme court also ruled today.

By the decision, Hettie J. Joslin, Chicago, won her fight to recover $4,000 damages for a fire which burned her apartment building in Chicago. The supreme court overruled a decision by Judge Edgar V. Werner in Oconto-co circuit court in favor of the defendant insurance companies.

The insurance companies argued that the janitor of the building in question had knowledge of the still and the consequent fire hazard and that the knowledge was imputed to the plaintiff.

Counsel for the defendants also argued "that under the terms of the national prohibition act it is clearly unlawful to contract to indemnify one against the consequences of violating the act."

John Klinker, Menasha, and his wife, Myrtle, won their claim to the entire estate of Annie Kretschmer by a ruling of the supreme court today. In Winnebago-co court the Klinkers testified that they took care of Annie Kretschmer for seven years prior to her death on the promise of being awarded her entire estate.

Judge D. E. McDonald awarded the Klinkers $3,750 but the latter appealed on the ground that the estate belonged to the late R. J. Fieweger, administrator of the estate and respondent in the case before the supreme court, appealed from that portion of the judgment allowing the Klinkers $3,750 and the denial of Judge McDonald to reopen the case to receive additional testimony.

The south end of the drive is in Winnebago-co, so $206 of the total expense is to be borne by that county.

The curb and gutter is now being installed after which the American Legion will proceed with its beautification program.

ACTIVITIES BANQUET AT SCHOOL CALLED OFF

Because of the heavy school program at Appleton high school during May, and also because it was thought wise to economize on the funds of the student council who have sponsored the activities banquet heretofore, there will be no banquet this year.

The activities finance plan in operation at the high school was discussed by H. H. Holbe, principal, in order that all the collections for this plan be out of the way before the yearbook is issued on May 29, a double collection will be taken by the student council members.

The finance plan which is sponsored by the student council is a method whereby many of the high school activities are supported. Each student contributes 15 cents a week for a period of 35 weeks.

Herbert Schmidt of the handbook committee which is put out annually by the council reported that the handbook is nearly ready to go to the printers and asked for suggestions from the students as to material that might be put in this book. Approximately 1,000 copies will be printed during the summer.

Wind Clears Clouds Away, Eclipse Is Photographed

San Francisco —(P)—Photographs of a celestial phenomenon, the eclipse of the sun by the moon, were available to posterity today, thanks to a roaring wind which at the critical moment swept aside a black cloud which had obscured the view.

The black cloud, apparently formed by mist in the frigid air, startled scientists and their aviator assistants along the line of totality, stretching eastward across the Sierra mountains from just north of San Francisco. Shouts of bitter disappointment greeted the dark blotch, but a moment later a strong wind swept the cloud away and scores of cameras photographed the eclipse.

The swift passage of the moon's giant shadow was described by Captain A. W. Stevens and Lieut. J. D. Conkille of the Army Air Corps experimental laboratory of Wright field, Dayton, Ohio.

"We were high above a layer of white clouds about 18,000 feet over Honey lake in northern California," said Captain Stevens, "suddenly we

U. S. MUST GUARD AGAINST EUROPE, M'GOVERN WARNS

Foreign Countries See America as Santa Claus, Officers Told

M'GOVERN

The warning that European countries are continually trying to wring all they can out of Uncle Sam and that the United States must be on constant guard against this tendency was sounded here Monday night by Col. F. M'Govern, Milwaukee, a former governor of the state, at the annual state convention of the Military Order of Foreign Wars at the Conway hotel.

Officers were elected at the gathering, which opened the afternoon session.

Commander, Col. Guy E. Armitage, Milwaukee; vice commander, Capt. John G. Bruckner, Fond du Lac; secretary, Capt. William C. Liefert, Milwaukee; treasurer, Lieut. Henry L. Lenz, Escobedo.

A resolution supporting the candidacy of Col. F. J. Schneller, Neenah, as the next national commander of the American Legion, was adopted.

Europe looks upon Uncle Sam as a Santa Claus, said Colonel M'Govern. "She is always trying to determine how the United States can be intimidated into giving something because of this attitude. I think the United States must assume a cautious stand in its relations with foreign powers."

"I believe in peace and in all the measures that go to cement friendship, but when diplomacy fails to negotiate that peace, I also believe in restoring to more severe measures."

ATTENDED CONVENTION

Colonel M'Govern based his attitude upon his observations made last summer when he was a member of the American delegation, headed by Col. Paul V. McNutt, former national commander of the American Legion, that crossed the Atlantic to attend the annual Elidac convention.

He described the attempts made by the French at that convention to pass resolutions increasing the amount of war damages for some of the continental countries, and also enlarging the fund that the United States should share in arriving at settlements.

Colonel McNutt's party traveled through 12 foreign countries on that trip, covering approximately 10,000 miles. In England, because of statements of Colonel McNutt supporting the president's policy of naval parity with England, the delegates received a rather cool reception, Colonel M'Govern recalled.

"In France the welcome was warm, but in Belgium, where one would have expected sincere gratitude, the atmosphere was rather chilly," he said. "The reception again was heartily in Germany and magnificent in Italy."

Colonel M'Govern praised the accomplishments of Mussolini in Italy. He recalled that it was so many years ago that Italy was in a most hopeless condition, and he traced the upward curve of the economic plane there.

CYCLE IS ABOLISHED

"I have not one word for Mussolini's political program, but I sincerely believe that the United States would do well to pause and give his economical program due consideration," he said.

"Four years this country has followed an economic cycle, periods of prosperity alternating with periods of depression with startling regularity. The extremes of the cycle were reached about every 10 years, with a few interruptions usually caused by war. The wealthier class reaps the harvest during periods of prosperity and steps aside and lets the weight fall on the laboring class during depressive times."

Prosperity is enforced in Italy now, and employment and depression is practically unknown, he pointed out. Yet we, the most intelligent people in the world, have never attempted to stop the movement of this economic cycle.

"The state in Italy is supreme in every relation of life," he said. "And that, as I see it, is as it should be. The state lives on forever, while the individual dies. Therefore the individual's efforts should be subservient to those of the state."

He admitted he does not think we can employ Mussolini's methods here, but he did suggest that American methods be adopted in this country. Some firms are doing it now in America, he indicated.

He said he admired Henry Ford's program of attempting to keep men employed.

"Poverty," he said, "cannot be abolished in the face of the business cycle. So until this cycle is eliminated from our lives, future generations will face the same economic conditions such as existed in this country for years."

Production of raw silk is contemplated in Czechoslovakia.

Make Plans For Home Merchants Day Here On May 23

THREE MAJOR EVENTS WILL DRAW CROWDS

Proceeds from Programs to Help Graduates on Trip to Washington

Three major events are expected to draw a large crowd of rural people to Appleton on May 23 when the Appleton Home Merchants' association stages Home Merchants' day.

Plans for the event were formulated Monday afternoon at a meeting of a special committee, headed by Stephen Balliet, chairman, at the Insurance-bldg. Other members of the committee are, George Walsh, Karl Haugen, A. J. Genesee, R. T. Gage, George E. Johnson and William Ferron.

The first event of the day will be the annual county field day and the achievement contests which will be held in the morning. The achievement contests will be written at the courthouse while the athletic contests are to be staged at the Wilson Junior high school athletic field.

In the afternoon there will be a program of special entertainment which is to be presented at the Armory by rural schools, 4-H clubs, parent-teacher associations and home economics clubs. Prizes of $15, $10 and $5 will be awarded by the association to the groups staging the best performance.

All rural schools groups mentioned above are eligible to take part in this program. They must register with A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, on or before May 17. The amount of time allotted to each group will be limited and each group which registers for the contest will be assigned a certain time on the program.

PROGRAM AT ARMORY
The program at the armory is expected to last three hours, from 2 to 5 o'clock. Prize winners will be announced at the evening at a mass meeting at Lawrence Memorial chapel. Judges in this contest are to be announced later.

An admission charge of 10 cents will be made at the Armory and at the chapel in the evening. All of the proceeds from the programs, prizes, publicity, etc., are to be paid by the association and all receipts are to be turned over to Mr. Meating for the association.

"We recognize the great educational value of this trip to Washington," said Mr. Balliet, "and the home merchants are anxious to cooperate to the fullest extent to make it a success. We realize that Otagone is receiving the largest amount of publicity through this trip and we are glad to make it possible for some students to make the graduation trip."

It also is planned by the association to have Mr. Meating choose a committee of rural school teachers and students who will be permitted to operate a concession in the armory where sweets and food can be sold. All profits from this stand also will be turned over to Mr. Meating.

SPECIAL EVENTS
In the evening the merchants will stage a special program at Memorial hall. The program will feature a speaker who will talk for about half an hour. The Appleton high school band will play a short program of selections and Mr. Meating and Gus Sell county agent, will give short talks.

Then there will be distribution of the prizes in the entertainment contest and the $205 in cash prizes to be awarded in the contest which is now in progress.

This last contest consists of a series of questions and statements appearing in advertisements which are being published in the Appleton Post-Crescent every Monday and Wednesday. Students must answer the questions or enlarge on the statements. All of the prize money distributed in the question and answer contest is to be turned over to the school where the prize winner is enrolled and it is to be used to help the graduates on their trip to Washington.

A special prize of $25 is being offered to the rural school which has the largest percentage of its students taking part in the contest. All entries in the contest must be gathered by the teacher of the school and submitted in one lot to Mr. Meating at the close of the contest.

PAINT PARKING LINES ON APPLETON STREETS

They say the early bird catches the worm, but looking for worms isn't the game of the three men who started painting the town yellow at 2 o'clock this morning. Three street department workers started then to repaint the parking stalls on the principal streets of Appleton, working steadily until early morning traffic interfered with the wedding of the brush.

The new parking spaces will be marked two feet off the old angle, and will be four inches wider, according to Robert Hackworth, street commissioner. This means that in a block of 22 parking spaces, two less cars will be accommodated and in a block used for 75 cars, there will be room for only 52.

Court Decision Cancels Marriage

Legal storm clouds have cast their shadows over this scene of marital bliss. For the marriage of Lieut. Leslie Arnold, round the world flyer and Priscilla Dean, screen actress, who are pictured above, has been cancelled. Georgia courts have set aside the divorce which Arnold obtained in Atlanta from Mrs. Mildred Avery Arnold of Groton, Conn. She had filed a petition charging the divorce was fraudulently secured, because she had not been served with a summons.

Mr. Stimson, responding to the address of welcome given the American delegates at city hall, said:

"We are very grateful for this welcome. Some of us are natives of New York, and have the peculiar happiness of being welcomed by old friends and neighbors. But whether native New Yorkers or not, we all appreciate the warmth of a New York welcome."

"It is very gratifying to us to be met at the gateway of home with the knowledge that our efforts have met with your approval. We do not take this welcome as a personal tribute, but as an indication of your sympathy with the great cause of international good will and peace for which we have labored."

CHARGE OPERATOR OF PARLOR HAD NO PERMIT

James Doshaney was arraigned in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg Monday afternoon for the second time within a year on the same charge—operating a soft drink parlor without a license. Pichmann hearing of the case was set for May 5 and he furnished a bond of $100.

The first time Doshaney was arrested last September he was fined $50 and costs by Judge Berg.

Doshaney was arrested Monday by Sergeant Matthew McGinnis and Officer George Behrendt. It is charged he was operating a soft drink parlor in the basement of his residence, Officer Behrendt claims he visited the place last Saturday night and purchased drinks there. He said there were a number of other people in the place when he was there.

C. C. COMMITTEE AT CHILTON HEARING

R. T. Gage, J. R. Whitman, T. W. Orison, O. R. Klehn and Kenneth H. Cobett, Appleton chapter of Commerce road committee members, will be at Chilton Tuesday attending a hearing before the state highway committee relative to changing the location of federal highway 10 from its present route to one which would bring the road into Appleton over the present county line road between Calumet and Outagamie counties.

The Appleton men and residents of the town of Harrison, Calumet, also in favor of the change, pointing out that it will shorten the highway and give the town of Harrison a main traffic artery which can be paved at comparatively little cost.

SHOWERS, WARMER FOR TONIGHT, WEDNESDAY

FILIPINOS AGAIN COMPLAIN ABOUT U. S. TREATMENT

Exclusion Law Sought by California Brings Another Outburst

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—Once again the Filipinos are complaining that we hold them by the scruff of the neck and try to kick them all over the house at the same time.

An eloquent little group of brown-skinned statesmen has been telling a congressional committee in Malay accent and impassioned tones that it would be outrageously unjust while the Philippine Islands are under the American flag to exclude them from the United States as we do Chinese and Japanese and as is proposed in a resolution introduced by Congressman Richard J. Welch of California.

A determined group of whites from Congressman Welch's state has been arguing that there are altogether too many Filipinos in this country already and that only harm can come from allowing the entry of any more.

BACKS PLEA FOR FREEDOM

All of which gives the Filipinos another chance to shout for independence and lends more color to the now old contention that they are more of a liability than an asset. In a military sense they are just a bunch of islands at the other end of the world ready for some naval tug to grab in case of war. Our sugar interest protest that our mounting tonnage of duty-free Filipino sugar that is imported annually is a very bad thing and the same is said of tobacco and other Filipino exports. Now come people from the west coast to say that the most dangerous of the exports from the islands are the Filipinos themselves.

Congressman Welch has contended that the Pacific coast faces a grave problem as a result of "the third invasion of our country by a horde of nonassimilable Asiatics," citing recent race riots in California. The three coast states are frontiers of western civilization, he says and to protect the country as a whole congress must help them bar the Filipinos as it did in the cases of the Chinese and Japanese. Race riots are inevitable, in his opinion, as long as Filipino laborers continue to enter in competition with American workmen.

He gives the Filipino population of the United States as 160 in 1910 as against an estimated 50,000 in 1930, plus some 60,000 in the Hawaiian Islands with immigration constantly increasing. The immigrants are practically all young males and are very cheaply. When unemployed hit California the trouble is plain.

Other distinguished Californians joined before the immigration committee to support Welch's arguments.

"The Filipinos happened to have some worthy spokesmen right on the spot. In addition to the resident commissioners, Pedro Guevara and Manuel Oslas, their special independence mission had been here since December; Manuel Roxas, speaker of the Philippine house of representatives; Manuel Rumbos, the majority floor leader, and Pedro Gil, the minority floor leader."

"Having worked on that basis I can tell you, gentlemen, that it is a very happy thing to be welcomed as we are welcomed this morning, and we thank you from the bottom of our hearts."

APPLETON JEWELER TALKS TO BOY SCOUTS

The mining of genuine opals in Australia and methods used in preparing them for the market recently were explained to Troop 12 of Valley county boys scouts by Marvin Spector, Appleton jeweler. Troop 12 members are boys at Roosevelt junior high school.

Opals are mined about 300 feet under ground. Mr. Spector told the boys, all work being done by hand. When brought to the surface the color and stone are so delicate they must be brought up only 10 feet at a time, the practice being necessary to prevent too rapid exposure to air and sunlight. Various grades and value of the stones also were explained.

Mr. Spector gave each member of the troop a Mexican opal, a stone of much lesser value. It is found on the surface of the ground in certain regions of Mexico and readily can be cut and polished.

SENATE CAMPAIGN QUIZ GROUP IS IN FIGHTERS' HANDS

Insurgent Nye Is Named Chairman of Investigating Machine

BY L. A. BROPHY
Washington—(AP)—A chairman with the inquiring mind which his newspaper profession develops, and three lawyers, two ex-prosecutors, form most of the 1930 model senate campaign investigating machine.

Thirty-eight-year-old Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota heads the committee, which starts out on a trail bitterly blazed two years ago under leadership of sharp-tongued Jim Reed of Missouri.

Nye is a republican—an insurgent bloc republican. The other republican who has accepted is Roscoe C. Patterson of Missouri.

The other two are democrats—Clarence C. Dill of Washington, and Robert F. Wagner of New York.

Prosecuting and investigating are things that the lawyer committee men know much about from personal experience.

As far as Nye is concerned searching political expenditures for illegal largess is something he does on his senatorial hobby, as a matter of fact.

Patterson was prosecuting attorney for Green County, Missouri, some 20 years ago. He served two terms. To come to the senate, he left the post of United States At-torney for the western district of Missouri.

Senator Dill is remembered to Spokane County, Washington, for his occupancy of the office of county prosecutor.

In 1911 Senator Wagner was chairman of the New York State Factory Investigating Commission.

Like Jim Reed Nye is a belittling and cutting, when he thinks such attitude necessary. He may be a little more suave about it, but his record bristles with fighting outspokenness. He was an editor before a senator and headed the inquiry into the naval oil leases.

The wrong things in government—land speculation, for his belief are "the spawn of the current system of financing political campaigns—particularly national campaigns."

His answer to "Why is a campaign contribution?" is "For value received."

He refused to vote for William S. Vane of Pennsylvania when the latter was barred from the senate for alleged excessive campaign expenditures. Likewise he was the author of a resolution to keep Senator Joseph R. Grundy of Pennsylvania from being seated.

GROGER FALLS DEAD WHILE DRIVING CAR

George Emrich Slumps Over Wheel as He Drives Home from Theatre

Stricken while driving his car north on Oneida-st about 8 o'clock Monday evening, George Emrich, 44, 513 D. Summit-st, died of heart disease at the wheel of the machine.

Charles and Agnes Earle, 317 E. North-st, noticed the machine forging ahead with Emrich's body slumped over the steering wheel and they drove alongside and the young man jumped to the moving car and stopped it. Emrich was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital in an ambulance but was dead before arriving there.

Mr. Emrich, a grocer, had started for the theatre with his wife but when they reached the place he said he didn't feel well and urged her to go alone. He was returning home when he died.

He was born at Black Creek but moved to Appleton ten years ago.

May Day Challenges Community Civic Pride

BY JULIA BLANSHARD
New York—May Day challenges the civic pride of every community in America.

In England, on the "merrie first of May," folks gather on the green for Maypole dances, in Germany, France and other European countries, children hang May baskets of colorful flowers on neighbors' front doors. America, however, turns all the happy symbolism of May Day into a drive for better health and opportunity for its dearest possessions, its children.

President Hoover has issued the annual national proclamation declaring "May Day is Child Health Day." Governors and mayors are giving their pleas to his. The American Child Health Association, through its president, Mrs. Ada de Costea, Breckinridge, is cooperating with every interested community by providing suggestions for programs.

President Hoover has issued the annual national proclamation declaring "May Day is Child Health Day." Governors and mayors are giving their pleas to his. The American Child Health Association, through its president, Mrs. Ada de Costea, Breckinridge, is cooperating with every interested community by providing suggestions for programs.

In New York, for instance, 10,000 children of 27 nationalities, will parade, all dressed in the colorful costumes of their parents' native countries, all carrying banners bearing child health slogans. Brooklyn will dedicate the $100,000 dental clinic donated by August Heckscher.

Indiana has worked out a "home score card" with 10 points which will check up on whether each child is getting enough sun, ventilation, pure milk, good water, enough room to play and a corner to call his own at home.

CONTESTS ARE PLANNED
Minnesota is holding a statewide poster contest with prizes for the best health-plaques posters. Ohio will have an inter-school contest, with prizes and picnics, to find out which schools have the highest records for the number of teeth examined during the year, the fewest tonsils found and the smallest number of round shoulders.

Mississippi is calling on its churches to hold health meetings. Iowa state on May first to hold a whole summer round-up of health, under the Patient Teacher Association, to try to eliminate diphtheria, Illinois is devoting a week to programs with concentrated study group examinations and general research into just what is being done for the state's children. North Dakota is concentrating on proper dental care for every child. Philadelphia is holding a child health week, with all subjects of children included, for general health of each boy and girl.

Even faraway Hawaii is responding to President Hoover's call to health with a week's program emphasizing the care of teeth.

Whether individual parents take part in the community programs or not, these celebrations will focus their attention on their own children's health. Therefore the American Association is asking all local papers to report all such festivities, all forums and every civic drive for health. For, according to Mrs. Breckinridge, the only way to have 100 per cent American child health is to mobilize the home for the health of the child. May Day, 1930, is the time to start this move.

16 BOYS ENTERED IN SCHOOL TENNIS MEET

Sixteen boys have signed up to compete for the tennis championship of Appleton high school. Last year's title was won by Norman Clapp, who has entered the tournament again.

Those entered are Fred Marshall, Frank Dean, James Neller, Robert Shannon, Marks Jorgensen, Robert Buns, Byron Powers, Bill Chah, Melvin Krohn, Newman Johns, James Laird, Charles Widesteen, Norman Clapp, Donald Burdick, Jere Ottman and John Reeve.

The matches may be played on any tennis court but must be finished by Monday, May 5.

BUILDING PERMITS

Two building permits were issued Monday by John N. Wieland, building inspector. The permits were issued to Charles Groth, 1116 W. Springfield, basement, cost $500, and Morris Lock, 900 N. Richmond, cost $100.

The regulations which Young established for testing and licensing planes have often been regarded as stringent, but he says they merely represent a minimum below which it is unsafe to go. Recently he has worked out new standards to cover increasing passenger transportation which include complete radio equipment for two-way communication between flying aircraft and ground stations as well as fully adequate ground personnel and facilities.

Regulations for transport pilots have become especially stringent. Young pilots must demonstrate their ability to handle that type of plane in particular.

Young's first experience as a pilot came after he entered the army in May, 1917. He was trained in Italy and was attached to an Italian bombardment squadron fighting Austrians.

One day about five months before the war ended he was shot down by anti-aircraft guns during a bombing raid, landing within the Austrian lines. He escaped with what he calls a few scratches but admits "I was certainly scared to death up there by those machine-guns."

His prison camp lay inside the Italian Alps and he observed that all the men who escaped from it were invariably brought back in a week or so, having been unable to penetrate the mountains. So Young and a companion determined that they wouldn't spend the winter in that place and began to lay deep designs on a nearby aerodrome. Escaping by plane seemed to be their only bet.

The planes were usually interrupted in November when the Austrian part of the war collapsed and the prisoners were given a train which took them to the border. "It was a good thing," Young remarks. "We probably would have had our heads shot off before we got through the mountains."

Young himself looks as fearless as that exploit would have been. He is 40 years old, dark and slender. He is energetic and speaks easily, with a whimsical sense of humor. His manner is courteous and he has a genius for organization and efficiency with a minimum of red tape.

He acknowledges Des Moines, Ia., as his home town. He graduated from Drake University and the law school, entering law practice in Des Moines.

After the war he returned to Des Moines to practice law again, but found it too dull. He became one of the first airplane salesmen and sold 50 planes in a single year, including some of the first commercial planes ever built. Still selling planes he and two or three other men who possessed them went barnstorming about the country, landing in pastures, stunting and selling rides to the populace. As soon as they had taken up all the people in town who wanted to fly they would chase on to a pasture or open field at the next community.

He became commander of the 31st Air Corps Reserve Squadron of which Charles A. Landburgh was a member, and has been successful in making a captain, a major and a colonel. After barnstorming for a couple of years he went back to law for two or three years but he kept his plane. Again that year he met and married a woman who was a pilot and he resumed aviation on briefly at Philadelphia Sequel Centennial.

AVIATION SETTLES DOWN TO PROGRESS, SECRETARY THINKS

Col. C. M. Young, War Pilot and Lawyer, Prepares U. S. Air Rules

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
(Copyright, 1930, by NEA Service, Inc.)

Washington—Col. Clarence M. Young, to whom aviation has been both bread and butter and adventure for 13 years, believes that the industry has now settled down to sound progress after a period of over-expansion and giddy promotion.

Young is the Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics, in complete charge of civil aviation policies and regulations, is one of the most distinctive figures among Washington officials. He has flown and still flies whenever he travels. He has been shot down in the air. He sold planes for years. He was one of the first aerial barnstormers. He knows law because he practiced it. He prepared the Air Commerce Regulations and has supervised their enforcement. Some things about aviation have yet to be discovered, but Young knows all the others.

"For a year and a half the aviation industry progressed too intently and expensively," he says. "A lot of money has been made available through promotion of big companies, and development ran ahead of what should have been normal capacity. Lately the bottom dropped out, manufacturers began to close down and there was little market for aircraft."

"We have slowed down to a normal rate of progress and that seems to me good thing. We seem to have the promotion part out of the picture and can start again on a clean slate and a good sound premise."

"The aircraft shows proved that we have a real aviation industry. Often we used to see a lot of wild ideas that might some day be producing aircraft for a market that has rapidly become thoughtful, discriminating in the matters of construction, performance, operation and maintenance. The maker who builds only to meet the minimum requirement of the Commerce Department as to durability and performance isn't necessarily making a salable plane for an intelligent market. What we need most of all is to build planes that will sell."

The regulations which Young established for testing and licensing planes have often been regarded as stringent, but he says they merely represent a minimum below which it is unsafe to go. Recently he has worked out new standards to cover increasing passenger transportation which include complete radio equipment for two-way communication between flying aircraft and ground stations as well as fully adequate ground personnel and facilities.

Regulations for transport pilots have become especially stringent. Young pilots must demonstrate their ability to handle that type of plane in particular.

One day about five months before the war ended he was shot down by anti-aircraft guns during a bombing raid, landing within the Austrian lines. He escaped with what he calls a few scratches but admits "I was certainly scared to death up there by those machine-guns."

His prison camp lay inside the Italian Alps and he observed that all the men who escaped from it were invariably brought back in a week or so, having been unable to penetrate the mountains. So Young and a companion determined that they wouldn't spend the winter in that place and began to lay deep designs on a nearby aerodrome. Escaping by plane seemed to be their only bet.

The planes were usually interrupted in November when the Austrian part of the war collapsed and the prisoners were given a train which took them to the border. "It was a good thing," Young remarks. "We probably would have had our heads shot off before we got through the mountains."

OPTIMISM FLOWS AT GATHERING OF COMMERCE CHAMBER

Result of Survey of Business Conditions Outlined to Members

BY J. C. ROYLE
(Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press)
Washington — (CPA)—Optimism was noticeably apparent in the attitude of the hundreds of delegates to the annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce as a result of the survey of business conditions, by Julius H. Barnes, made public Monday.

Mr. Barnes is chairman of the National Business Survey conference, called at the instance of President Hoover. This was the first direct report that the business men of the country have had as to whether consumption and production were being maintained within a reasonable distance of each other. Assurance that there are no situations which dispirited a feeling of anxiety which has existed throughout the country.

The effect of the report was heightened by the fact that it was made by the various units of industry and represented the reports of men in closest touch with every angle of their own individual lines.
Each submitted a report on his industry for the interpretation of his fellows in the craft and with the idea that the reports as a whole might give basis for a general interpretation.

FUNDS AVAILABLE

The Barnes report shows, first of all, that there is a large volume of funds available for business purposes from the commercial and reserve banks of the country, but it is noted that the decline in money rates has not yet reached all classes of bank loans or all centers of bank credit. The essential stability of credit and of the business situation is shown by the fact that over a billion and a half dollars of new capital was obtained by business firms during the first three months of 1930, a record never exceeded before. One portion of the funds is made evident.
That is that bond issues, while more numerous than in recent years, have individually represented smaller sums.

Building and loan associations have more money with which to promote building than they had three months ago. The loans made by life insurance companies during nearly 50 per cent of the total business of this character in the country, increased approximately seventy million dollars in the last three months as compared with the first quarter of 1929.
Savings bank deposits, which fell off so sharply at the end of last year, are beginning to pile up again. Bank debts, showing the general business turnover, are only slightly lower than they were at this time last year.

HOME BUILDING DROPS

It has been apparent for some time that public works construction would far exceed that of 1929, but the figures announced in the review made it thoroughly evident that commercial structures and home building have dropped materially.
The amounts expended for alterations and repairs, however, have shown a striking increase.

The amount to be spent on highway construction in 1930 is estimated at $300,000,000 more than the sum so used in 1929. This is calculated to give an impetus to the production of cement, crushed stone, structural steel and brick. Paint sales are showing the usual seasonal increase, but the glass industry is still lagging woefully behind. One of the striking features of the comparison is that prices for building materials show no extraordinary change either up or down.

So far as the farmer is concerned, he has been able to buy more new agricultural equipment than last year. Manufacturers of electrical equipment are said to have sold 10 per cent more goods than in the first quarter of 1929, especially in refrigeration units. Radio equipment sales have dropped off. So has production of shoes, cotton textiles, silk, carpets and rugs. General indications were that food sales have never been better.

would spin khaddar or homespun cloth, and sing seditious songs.

Joe Cook, Of Vanities, Now Working In Talkies

BY JESSIE HENDERSON

Hollywood, Calif. — (CPA)—Joe

Cook was seated in a sideshow tent that had been disguised as a dressing room, twirling in his hand the worst looking guitar you've ever seen. The locale was Burbank, just far enough outside Hollywood so that the shooting of the new circus talkie of Columbia pictures, in which Joe Cook takes perhaps 60 per cent of the roles, could proceed without too much interruption.

You know Joe Cook, The Vanities in New York. The Revues. The man who does tricks and the monologue. Well, this is Joe Cook's first talkie.

"Seriously," Joe Cook was saying seriously, "I think the talkies are going to be a big boost for the legitimate stage. Yes, I know everybody says exactly the opposite. But here's how I figure it. People liked the calm silences of the silent movies. They could go into a theatre and rest. They could even go to sleep. Sometimes they did. OK so far, but the younger generation of movie fans got into the habit of expecting a dramatic entertainment to be silent. Without knowing it, they were real-

RUBIES POPULAR IN PARIS TODAY

You Wear Them in Ropes or Triple Strands for Evening Affairs

BY AILEEN LAMONT
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
New York — (CPA)—In Paris, rubies are extremely fashionable for evening wear. So are near-rubies. You also wear equally fashionable are necklaces thick, composed of diamonds, or brilliant, or whatever is white and glittery beneath the evening lights. A necklace of this kind, however, clamors for a long and slender neck.

In order to achieve a waistline, nobody has returned to corsets with more enthusiasm than the London lady. She does not lace herself firmly into the garment, but lightly, if at all. Many of the corsets are more step-ins, without lacing, and most of the new ones depend, not on bones, but upon firm materials, well shaped, and just confining enough to give a womanly silhouette.

There's a decidedly ingenious-ish to note the difference. Ten years from now, you'll see the greatest stage revival in the history of the American theatre.

But why, you inquired, the cock-eyed guitar?

"I got it in a hook shop," Mr. Cook replied, "and when I bring it down on my assistant's head, it will be the three thousand and first time I have done so."

And why, you demand. And why? Mr. Cook pointed to an elaborate contrivance on the "Rain or Shine" location lot; three chairs suspended at various elevations from a scaffolding. He in the topmost chair beams with the guitar him in the second who, falling on him in the third, causes the striking of one resonant note on a musical triangle. It's part of an orchestra. "And that," explained Joe Cook, is the words of his famous monologue, "is why I will not imitate four Hawaiians."

No, it isn't meant to make sense.

Midwest Preparing For Record Vacation Season

Chicago — (CP)—The railroads, the boat lines and the bus companies of the middle west have completed plans for handling a record number of vacationists this summer.

Millions of dollars will be spent, millions of miles will be covered, and millions of persons will participate in annual holidays from cities to lakes, woods and countryside. None of the vacationland agencies of Chicago would attempt to estimate how many persons or how much money would be involved, but they, as well as spokesmen for transportation companies, predicted that the season starting this week and running into September, would exceed any previous one.

The vacation frontier has moved farther and farther from the cities each year. The popularity of the motor car was given as a primary cause, but railroads and bus companies as well have become beneficiaries of the city family's urge to get out of town for two weeks in the summer time.

Those who would have ventured only to the nearby lakes of Michigan and Wisconsin a few years ago are now showing interest in conducted

HIS SPEECH ON DRY LAW GIVES HIM A HEADACHE

Milwaukee — (CP)—Prohibition is just a headache to Charles Gallagher. He stood before the bar in Daniel West's place and grew eloquent about the good old days when beer was beer and "dry" meant more than a prohibition agent.

During Gallagher's description of the old saloon with its well known brass rail, he thrust his right foot forward seeking a counterpart in the modern speakeasy. There wasn't any rail. He toppled forward. His head struck the bar. His scalp was cut open. Friends took him to the Emergency hospital for treatment.

Right before your eyes is a simple demonstration proving that New Iso-Vis does not thin out. Ask to see the Ball and Bottle Test at any Standard Oil Service Station

THAT NEW ISO-VIS MOTOR OIL does not thin out in your crankcase is almost unbelievable. Yet it is a fact that now has been demonstrated by literally thousands of road tests. You can see the results of such a test at any Standard Oil Service Station.

In each of four small bottles of oil is placed a tiny metal ball. The speed with which these balls drop to the bottom of the bottles shows you the heaviness of the various oils. If an oil is thinned out, the ball falls more quickly.

This test enables you to compare New Iso-Vis that has gone more than the average mileage with fresh New Iso-Vis. You can also compare used New Iso-Vis with other kinds of used oil. New Iso-Vis is the only motor oil that will not thin out.

Because it always maintains its body, New Iso-Vis gives better protection to every moving part of your engine—and cuts down wear and repair bills.

Comparison tests with other oils show that New Iso-Vis makes a big reduction in carbon formation—actually 50% less than the average carbon deposited by various better-grade oils.

This new type oil has a wider temperature range. It lubricates at higher heat than it is possible to reach in your motor—yet works perfectly in cold weather. The combination of these important qualities in New

THIS micrometer reported no appreciable wear in an engine that was protected by New Iso-Vis on a test run of 9,000 miles. And wear on your engine is of course the final test of any lubricant.

HERE, an engineer is making one of many tests proving that New Iso-Vis lessens carbon formation.

Iso-Vis results from a new system of refining. Never before has one oil rated so high on so many important points—points that are vital to the long life of the modern high compression engine. You will find this improved new motor oil at all Standard Oil service stations and dealers. Let your motor car judge New Iso-Vis for itself.

LEARNING OUR LESSONS
It is hard to imagine anything more horrible than the Ohio penitentiary fire. The thought of those 300-odd convicts, locked in their steel cages and screaming out helplessly as death came upon them in the smoke, is going to be a hard thing to forget. One's faith in the ultimate goodness of the world does not easily survive a jar like that. Perhaps, though, it will be a good thing if we can't forget this fire too easily. There is no way of undoing the tragedy. But it is possible for us to see to it that it is never repeated.

Ohio's prison, as a matter of fact, was just waiting for something like this to happen. The stage was all set for it—had been set for it for years. The investigation now under way may disclose that this or that man, group of men or circumstance or group of circumstances was directly at fault; but we do not need an investigation to see that the fundamental trouble was the penal system itself. The prison at Columbus was very old. It was frightfully over-crowded. It was manned by a staff of sadly underpaid guards. Year by year its population increased, year by year its facilities grew more and more inadequate; but the politicians at Columbus, year by year, postponed the expenditure of money that would have made a modern, decent penitentiary out of it. So, sooner or later, something like this fire was bound to happen.

The tragedy, when it came, was unspeakably awful. But there is no use in pretending that it was merely the work of a sardonic, inscrutable fate. It was the work of human shortcomings and indifference. It happened because Ohio was willing to house its convicts in a relic of the dark ages. If this were Ohio's affair alone it would not be so bad. But is it? Are there, in all the union, half a dozen states which do not have penitentiaries equally out-of-date, equally overcrowded, equally understaffed? Could not the same thing happen tomorrow in almost any other penitentiary one could name?

There is the rub. Not only Ohio needs to spend several million dollars on a new prison system. Most of the other states need to do the same thing. It took the Iroquois theater fire to compel the installation of safety devices in American theaters. It took the sinking of the Titanic to compel ocean liners to carry sufficient lifeboats. It took the Collingwood school fire to make American school buildings safe for children. The disaster at the Ohio penitentiary, let us hope, will result in a similar advance for our prisons. We must not continue any longer with inadequate, crowded, out-of-date prisons. If we do, we shall have, some day, a repetition of what happened at Columbus.

HUGHES' LIBERALISM
Courts, almost like administrations, seem to have policies which change with their personnel. Human law is not absolute like laws of nature. You cannot expect always to get the same results from the same experiment in a law court as you do in a laboratory. So, at any rate, thinks Thomas Reed Powell, law professor at Harvard and authority on constitutional law. He has just given, in a public address, an analysis of 130 decisions of the United States supreme court under Chief Justice Taft, in which he says:

The alignment of the judges is usually determined not by technical considerations, but by the deeper antagonisms of contemporary outlook. It is therefore natural that the public should be concerned about the underlying attitudes of the men who are to be given life positions on the bench.

Taft went to extremes to thwart the efforts of legislatures and commissions to restrain conduct they deemed inimical to public welfare. He had a court that followed him contentedly in curbing any novel or extensive expansions of legislative power. His court will be known as one that was predominantly anti-government, anti-labor, pro-railroads, a court skeptical or fearful of change, confident of its own wisdom and wilful to make its wisdom prevail.

As for Chief Justice Hughes, Prof. Howell thinks he will surprise the critics who have considered him as conservative as Taft. "In his six previous years on this bench," the professor finds, "there were about 25 cases in which the court was divided, and in all but three or four he was on the side that Senators Borah and Norris would be forced to call the liberal side. The outlook seems to be that Hughes will be closer to the attitude of Holmes, Brandeis and Stone than to that of the others."

IMPRESSIVE KNOWLEDGE
The scientists seem to have been burning the midnight oil lately. One professor, having taken thought, announces that it would take a ray of light at least one trillion years to cross the universe. Another predicts that we shall be able to travel to the moon within the coming century. Still another finds some unexpected wigglers in a tube of sea water and believes that he is close to uncovering the facts about the origin of life. All of this is interesting and stimulating, and gives us a pleasant sense of the power of the human mind. However, there is no use getting excited about it. Knowledge of this kind may be useful and important, but there is not a great deal of nourishment in it for the ordinary man.

This "universe" that the astronomer talks about, for instance; is it anything with which most of us are even remotely acquainted? Not at all. It is a collection of blazing suns, whirling in complicated orbits through an immense emptiness, moving in obedience to some incomprehensible but immutable laws, like an enormous and mysterious clockwork whirligig. To the ordinary mortal the universe is simply the sky; a vaulted bowl of blue or gray or black, spangled at night with pinpoints of distant light; and it works some queer sort of magic, so that when we look up at it, on starlit nights, we get the foolish notion that the whole business is simply a stage-setting for our own lives, and that we ourselves are the most important creatures in existence. Any astronomer can tell you that that view of things is juvenile and mistaken. But there is more nourishment in it than in a volume of talk about "light years."

It is the same with these other bits of knowledge. Perhaps we shall be able to visit the moon some day; but who, in his senses, would want to? Isn't it better to take the moon for what it seems to be—a strange, glamorous adjunct to romance? Any high school lad wandering down a moonlit valley with his arm around a pretty girl knows more about the true inwardness of the moon than all the scientists that ever lived.

And so it goes. What if a group of wigglers in a test-tube do give some scientist a new hunch about the origin of life? A six-months-old-baby, gurgling and jabbering in a crib, can tell you of infinite mysteries, more profound and fundamental, if only you happen to be that child's parent. There is more to this world than chemical equations. There are various kinds of knowledge. The most impressive kinds are not always the kinds that are the most help in the business of living.

DEFLATING WAR
Twelve-hundred English school children recently answered a questionnaire about war movies. The purpose of the inquiry was to find out how such pictures affected their attitude toward war. All the children had seen from one to six big war movies, such as "The Four Horsemen," "The Big Parade," "The Better 'Ole" and "Dawn." Their replies showed 95 per cent of them opposed to war. Of the 49 boys and girls not opposed to war, only 22 seemed to regard it as a grand and glorious adventure.

There were children who called war horrible and cruel and who cited its economic waste, and a few who regarded it as sinful. A rather high percentage of these British youngsters showed a strong sense of fairness, having no marked prejudice against the enemy. Only 4 per cent of them showed any strong patriotic reaction, even to the picture about Edith Cavell.

Possibly all this proved something. At any rate, the investigators believe it indicates that movies influence children's viewpoint and that the war movies certainly have not made war popular with them.

Today's Anniversary

THE FIRST INAUGURAL
On April 30, 1789, George Washington, after a triumphant march from his home at Mount Vernon, was inaugurated first president of the United States on the balcony of Federal Hall, New York.

Washington was elected in January and was supposed to have begun his term from March 4. But there was such a delay in forming a quorum of Congress that the votes of the electoral college were not counted until early in April, when they were found to be unanimously in favor of Washington.

The delay apparently pleased Washington, for he wrote to General Knox: "The delay may be compared to a reprieve; for in confidence I tell you . . . that my movements to the chair of government will be accompanied by feelings not unlike those of a culprit, who is going to the place of his execution; so unwilling am I, in the evening of a life nearly consumed in public cares, to quit the peaceful abode for an ocean of difficulties, without the competency of political skill, abilities and inclination which are necessary to manage the helm."

THE TONSIL THAT HARBORS
A FOCUS OF INFECTION.
Just what is a "septic focus" or "focus of infection"? It is a center of activity for germs, a nidus, a nest where the germs grow and multiply. Very well, then, if that were all it wouldn't matter so much, provided the germs selected some out of the way place to set up house-keeping. But that ain't the half of it, as a lot of our older readers know from experience. We shall just call it experience and hope it has been a raid on the lining of a joint far from the home focus, or maybe the lining of the heart in the neighborhood of a valve. Likely as these excursions will be so quietly conducted that the host will remain unaware of the disturbance until the rheumatism begins to obtrude upon his consciousness or he discovers that his heart, like the gray old mare, ain't what she used to be, when he happens to run to catch the 8:12 train one morning.

It is no wonder that we doctors are so firm about the importance of clearing up a septic focus whenever we discover one in the course of a health examination or a casual once over. Yes, to be sure, it's all guess work, and we make no bones of that—not now. Of course we had to be pretty positive or arbitrary about it at first, in order to get folks into the habit of having their septic foci cleaned up, just on the chance that it might be causing whatever seemed to ail 'em. But now, after nearly twenty years of it, the public is not at all obstinate or unreasonable about giving up a tonsil or two or a few teeth just to see whether. And the best doctors, I say, make no bones about such experiments, even if the hoped for gains fail to materialize in half the cases. Of course the doctors concede that such failures are just too bad, but they don't cry crocodile tears about it, for they can always turn for consolation and cheer to the other half of their practice, in which the hoped for results of removal of septic foci ARE realized.

Several months ago I feared I was developing a touch of rheumatism in one knee. I believe I referred to it here. But it no longer annoys me, that fear or suspicion, thanks, I believe, to a reasonable modification of diet. I've been trying a wee speck of my own medicine—the corrective, peace and quiet, along the line suggested by Old Doctor Langstroth and described in detail here several times. If any reader wants to follow such a regimen I'll be glad to send full particulars and directions, on receipt of a request inclosing a stamped addressed envelope. I mention the matter here merely to indicate that I am by no means committed to the belief that all arthritis or joint trouble is due to a septic focus, and my views are very much the same as those of the majority of physicians about that.

But suppose you are fairly satisfied you have a focus of infection in a tonsil. Must you have the tonsils removed? Not necessarily. In a good many instances the septic focus in the tonsil may be cleared up thoroughly and promptly and painlessly by diathermy—provided your doctor or throat specialist is equipped to give such treatment.

The Dentist Deduces Acid.
My gums are sore and red and my dentist tells me there is too much acid in my system. I had a baby a year ago and my gums have improved since then, but they are still sore. I have heard that carrots are good for too much acid is that true?

Answer.—Carrots are good, and so are all other fresh vegetables and relishes or greens, particularly the kinds you can eat raw. So are all the fresh fruits, particularly those in season. Tomatoes, apples, raw cabbage and lettuce are particularly valuable items in the daily menu, to oppose acidosis. How in time the dentist can deduce too much acid is one of those mysteries the dentists had rather not divulge to us mere doctors.

Symmetry.
Is it true that one shoulder and hip are higher than the other, also one foot and one hand smaller than the other? (Miss B.)

Answer.—Yes, in nearly all right-handed persons the right shoulder and hip are higher than the left and the right hand and foot larger. In left-handed persons it is the other way.

Can a layman administer insulin safely after receiving full directions from his doctor? 4. Latest and best book on diabetes, that is, for the patient to read. (H.L.W.)

Answer.—1. It is life saving. 2. Indefinite prolongation of comfortable life. 3. I do not think it would be entirely safe, unless the doctor is always within easy call. 4. The Tynmites
By Hal Cochran

THE Tynmites fished the live long day. At first we scooped fish with the net and pulled the fish in fast. Said he, "I'm the best of all, I guess. I'm catching such a dandy mess. It seems that my luck is so good, it simply cannot last."

"Oh, look! Another's on my line. I'm glad we came here. This is fine." He jerked his line in quickly, as his pole began to sag. And then he found it was no use. He jerked too quick! The fish dropped loose, and Clowdy shouted loudly, "That will teach you not to brag."

Right soon the others had some luck. It seemed that everyone had struck right in a school of little fish and my, what fun they had. Each time they'd pull a nice fish in, the Travel Man would bridle grin. To see the bunch enjoy themselves of course made him feel glad.

The water soon grew rather rough and Copy said, "We've had enough. Let's call the fishing off now and find something else to do. It would be fun if we could find a cafe where they wouldn't mind cooking this mess of fish for us. What say the rest of you?"

They all agreed to this fine plan. "Well, we will do the best we can," replied one of the Tynmites. And they soon found a cafe where everything was worked out great. The Tynmites could hardly wait. And when the fish was served to them they all cried out, "Hurry!"

Soon they all walked about a block and once again were at the dock. "We'll take a sailboat now and cross the pretty Zuider Zee," exclaimed the friendly Travel Man. And to the sailboat they all ran. The trip across the water was as nice as it could be.

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON
BY HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington—Quick were the two Ruths in congress to speed congratulation to the third Ruth when it became apparent that she had won the republican nomination in Illinois for the United States senate.

Ruth Baker Pratt would not wait until morning. At 10 o'clock the night of the election she knew that her friend and colleague, Ruth Hanna McCormick, had won out. At that hour she wired:

"From all I hear, think it is not too early to congratulate you. Love and best wishes."

Ruth Bryan Owen, none the less enthusiastic, however, did wait until morning. But one of the first things she did upon arriving at her office on the hill was to dispatch the message:

Heartiest congratulations on your sweeping victory.

Mrs. Owen later confided that she used the word "sweeping" purposely. Her first choice was "out-standing," but she didn't think it was a strong enough word to "qualify such a victory."

NEAT WORDS
But it remained for Florence P. Kahn, dean of the gentlewoman in congress, to more amply express the attitude of her sister colleagues than any other.

Mrs. Kahn, whose wisecracks and witticisms are repeated on the hill almost as often as those of Nick Longworth's, was coming to her office from the capitol after having had breakfast with Colonel Johnny Tilsen, the republican leader in the house.

En route she passed by the office of Ruth Baker Pratt. Opening the door, thinking that she would find Mrs. Pratt in, she was told that the New York woman was at a committee meeting.

But Mrs. Kahn was not to be deprived of the opportunity to use the wisecrack she had thought up for Mrs. Pratt. With only her head in the door and her face wreathed in smiles, she called out to Reeves, Mrs. Pratt's secretary:

"Well, Mr. Reeves, us girls are still on top, when chuckling, continued on her way."

EXCITEMENT
There was little work being done in office 230—the room in the house office building occupied by Ruth Hanna McCormick.

Orrin Farr, her private secretary, was at the capitol receiving congratulations for his boss. The sole occupant of office 230 was an excited young woman stenographer, in a flaming red dress, who, in her enthusiasm in telling visitors just how far Mrs. McCormick was ahead of Senator Deineen, was getting her tongue twisted and referring to 3,260 precincts as "3,280 counties."

Mrs. McCormick had made no provision for keeping her Washington office informed as to the progress of the election. All that her employees here knew were periodic reports from press associations which came over the telephone.

VALLEY COUNCIL TO OPERATE TWO CAMPS DURING 1930 SEASON

Expect to Complete Negotiations for Purchase of New Site Soon

The valley council of boy scouts will operate two camps this summer, giving the council scouts an opportunity for a varied camping experience, it was announced Monday by M. G. Clark, valley scout executive. The new camp, which this year will be of an experimental nature, will be located in the north woods of Wisconsin, probably within a radius of 115 miles from Appleton, according to H. L. Gear, chairman of the council camp committee. The camp will be opened to first class scouts only who are recommended by the scoutmasters. This year it will be limited to 40 youngsters, who will be in camp for a period of 10 days from Aug. 3 to 14.

Camp Chicagami on Lake Winnebago will be open June 23 for the third season. The capacity of the camp will be increased to 60 scouts each week and will close on July 28. The first four weeks scouts will be in camp, and the last 10 days will be turned over to the 4-H clubs of Outagamie-co, although the regular staff of scout leaders will remain in camp.

With the close of Camp at Chicagami, tents, cots, dishes, cooking utensils and other necessary equipment such as tools will be moved to the northern camp. The camp committee at its meeting recently at Menasha decided to continue the same rate of $7 per week, $13 for two weeks at Chicagami.

The cost of the north woods camp periods will be $10, plus transportation. The camp will open on Sunday afternoons, making it possible for parents to drive their sons to camp, Mr. Clark stated.

USE NEW ROAD

A new road will be used into Camp Chicagami this summer in which case a bridge will be built to cover the 50 foot span across a ravine. A further study of the problem is being made by the committee, however, before definite action is taken. Several applications for positions on the camp leadership staff also were considered at the recent meeting of the camp committee, but no action was taken. Mr. Clark will be the business manager for both camps, and director of the north woods camp. A. J. Du Bois will again be the active associated director of Camp Chicagami. The other three leaders will be selected within the next week.

The camp committee will make intensive efforts to have scoutmasters spend a week or more in camp with their troops this summer. In order that such a camping experience might not conflict with the regular family vacations, the committee decided to ask firms employing scoutmasters to give them an extra week vacation. Two firms in Menasha, and one in Appleton already have agreed to such an arrangement, with pay.

BUILD TENNIS COURT

A tennis court is to be built at Camp Chicagami, and it is expected the scouts will do most of the work themselves. The purchase of 300 to 400, 12 to 20 foot cedar poles for woodcraft and rustic furniture is being considered.

Other important matters such as insurance, study of 1929 camp expenditures, camp publicity, purchase of supplies, employment of labor prior to camp, and other matters also were discussed.

The camp committee composed of H. L. Gear, and Mowry Smith, Menasha, and William Buchanan, Chris Mullen, E. A. Killoren and Mr. Clark of Appleton were to go north Monday to inspect four prospective sites for the new camp. It is expected that after their return the location will be announced.

Last year 211 individual campers spent 279 camp weeks at the scout camp on Lake Winnebago. This year with the two camps and an increased scout membership of 406, it is expected that well over 250 individuals will spend over 900 weeks in the two camps.

ESCAPES DEATH TWICE

Her first escape was in her husband's motor boat, which broke in two off Leeson Solent and she struggled in the water for an hour and a half before being rescued. The second escape was when her horse fell on top of her, submerging her in a brook. She was rescued with difficulty.

Talks To Parents

SPOILED CHILDREN

BY ALICE JUDSON PEALE

It is commonly believed that children are spoiled because they are too much loved and "given in to."

It seems to me, however, that no child can be too much loved, and that the danger of excessive indulgence is less real than that of the wrong sort of indulgence.

My own belief is that children are more often spoiled by a form of parental selfishness that goes by the name of love, and by an indulgence that is merely a name for parental laziness and inconsistency.

For instance, we may shower them with gifts, not because we love them but because we enjoy the personal response which these gifts bring forth. We love to make our children feel that they owe their greatest pleasures to us.

The really loving mother gives wisely and temperately—she never thus unconsciously bribes her child to adore her.

An honest examination of her inner motives will lead many a mother to see her generosity to her children in just this unflattering light.

Again and again I have seen mothers rationalize as "not being to harsh," their actual unwillingness to give up the comfort of an arm-chair or a racy bit of gossip with a visitor in order to see that a child follows through some command he has been given.

There is a time, surely, when a child should have his own way, when even exceptions to routine are in order, but they seldom correspond to those moments which this type of mother finds so convenient.

It is this sort of spasmodic, unreasonable indulgence that con-fuses the children so that he does not know where he stands, and leads him, sooner or later, to stage those tantrums that mark the spoiled child.

Fire Insurance a Key to Low Prices

Few have a true appreciation of the far-reaching effect of Stock Fire Insurance in holding down the cost of all merchandise.

No less authority than the Encyclopedia Britannica contributes a "testimonial" as follows:

"In the United States, as in no other country, has insurance in all its various phases become universally recognized as an essential of commerce and industry. To this fact may be attributed in large measure the achievements of America in business enterprises.

"Insurance encourages men and corporations to hazard their resources on new developments without fear of loss from natural and unavoidable catastrophes."

At every turn in the processing of materials—storage, manufacturing, transportation, wholesaling, retailing—the protection of Stock Fire Insurance contributes that indispensable element of certainty without loading prices for speculative risk.

By paying a premium which on the average is only a fraction of 1% of the amount insured, business transfers to the Stock Fire Insurance companies what would otherwise be an oppressive carrying charge against the risk of destruction by fire.

The 239 Stock Fire Insurance companies constituting the National Board of Fire Underwriters have rendered their services at an average price that has constantly declined for more than twenty years.

Interesting Menus

BY SISTER MARY

NEA Service Writer

The home-maker who wants to supply a well balanced and nourishing diet for her family at the minimum cost will find bananas one of her staple fruits.

They are high in food value—a good sized one furnishes 100 calories. Their large starch content makes them an excellent accompaniment for meat in place of potatoes. This starch in an unripe banana is just as indigestible as any other raw starch. Cooking acts on the starch as well as ripening of the fruit. A perfectly ripe banana is easily digested without cooking since the ripening converts the starch into dextrose and sugar.

As the banana ripens, brown spots appear on the skin. When all traces of green have disappeared even at the ends and the brown spots are seen, bananas are best for eating.

Baking bananas in the skin improves them for many persons. They may be baked in a quick oven and only until soft and the juice just begins to flow. Longer baking makes them tough and dark, dry and tasteless. Bananas baked before the skins darken will not be as fine flavored as the perfectly ripened ones but they will be more digestible than is eaten raw. Unripe bananas should be baked without the skins and fasted with a dessert. These can be used as a savory while those baked in the skins may take the place of a vegetable.

The fibrous "strings" sometimes left on bananas after peeling are indigestible while the coating just under the peel is very difficult for many people to digest. Children should have their fruit scraped before eating.

Although bananas are low in protein and do not supply any large amount of food necessary for repair, they are an excellent source of vitamins and are classed among the "protective" foods.

Bananas are excellent in salads or fruit cups. Their bland flavor combines well with tart fruits.

As long as the skin of a banana is unbroken the fruit is sterile, for the peel is a veritable germ-proof wrapper. This makes the banana one of the best raw foods available and quite safe for children.

GANDHI'S NEWSPAPER WON'T BOW TO CENSOR

Bombay, (P)—(P)—It was understood here today on arrival of Mahatma Gandhi from Karadi that he had directed the publishers of his newspaper, "Young India," to allow his press to be forfeited by the government rather than deposit the security demanded under the new censorship.

The press is known as the "Navajvan" and prints also the Navjivan vernacular weekly. The new censorship ordinance is really the old measure of the 1910 re-invoked by Viceroy Lord Irwin to meet the present situation.

After his arrival her Gandhi received a telegram from Borsad announcing arrest of Kaka Kalekar, the principal of his University at Ahmedabad and one of his most trusted lieutenants.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

SARAH'S eyes grew warm with red-brown fires as Barbara tauntingly asked her why she had not taken her party to her own comfortably furnished rooms upstairs.

"Why are you trying to create a poverty stricken setting for yourself, Sarah?" The words which the liquid, lilting voice had asked seemed to dance about the room. It was exactly the setting Sarah had planned in order to make Ted Merryman grow braver. As long as she knew she was wealthy, she was afraid he would let her money stand in his way.

"Every girl likes a new setting," Sarah answered lightly at last. "I want to show you all that I can be as intriguing in the Cinderella role as in the princess-in-the-tower." But her eyes gave Barbara a cool, yelled warning which put the warmer light they had held out. Sue noted the look.

"Well, if I were going to attempt martyrdom I'd do it on the right scale," the golden-haired girl answered. "I wouldn't do it just to be theatrical. This way, if you are trying to make some nice, poor young man believe you're as hard up for dollars as the match girl was for matches, you're making a grandiloquent gesture for nothing!" She turned to Ted Merryman. "Isn't she, Ted?"

And this time her words seemed to hang in the air, as though they had been shot at the end of wires and posed stiffly. Sue wanted to say something that would take them down. "I don't see anything to remove the mad, hurt look from Sarah's face and the startled anger from Ted's. She looked at Jack and his keen gray eyes were fastened on Barbara's face as though he tried to find the reason for her words. Grace saved the day.

"Money means a lot to you, doesn't it, Barbara?" she asked. "I've always had a hunch you couldn't buy happiness in a pound package or start an art, maybe you can. . . ." She shrugged her shoulders but her face was alight with something very soft and lovely as she looked at Jimmy Hayden.

"It isn't bought," Sarah answered slowly. "And it isn't given away. I guess it has to be won! And, Barbara, I'm not staging a Joan of Arc stunt. I have every dollar which my uncle left me. And now any man who rides down my alleyway will be accused of heinous hunting, but at least, you can't say I'm appealing to the associated charities for a little bit of love!"

Ted's stubborn chin grew more stubborn and Sarah, looking at him fleetingly, noticed that he turned and started to joke with Jack as though nothing had happened. Men, she remembered, hated scenes. They would run from them every time. Maybe her stay in the settlement house was only going to be as much time as . . .

Sue thought of it, too, on the train next day as she and Corrine ate caramels and loafed through magazines. But she had other things to ponder over, too. For instance, Harry had seemed very willing for her to go along. She wondered why he thought Corrine required chaperonage. Corrine, who was even more able to care for herself than Sue, the older girl sometimes thought. And just why her for a substitute?

Corrine interrupted her thoughts. "Sue, that old gray-haired man about 60 has been watching you for an hour. You're looking smart, too, in that snaky black dress with its fur-touched cape. Why haven't

WABASH ACCEPTS RAILROAD PLANS TO CONSOLIDATE

Road Falls in Line With Recommendations of Commerce Commission

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
W. Street, New York—(CPA)—
The definite acceptance by the Wabash railroad of the plan of consolidation, which makes this line the center of the proposed fifth eastern system, accords with the recommendations of the interstate commerce commission and indicates that the Wabash management proposes to go forward in its program of bringing together the strange group of roads that was linked up in the government merger plan.

In accepting the commission's order the Wabash becomes responsible for including in its system the Seaboard Air Line and the Norfolk and Western, which are to the south of its territory and bringing them into some sort of traffic relation with the Lehigh Valley, Wheeling and Lake Erie, Western Maryland, the Ann Arbor and a number of smaller roads which quite legitimately belong to it as a conspicuous member of the trunk line territory.

Since the interstate commerce commission prepared and published its plan of the consolidation of American railroads into 19 different systems and surprised the railroad world by taking the Norfolk and Western from the Pennsylvania and adding it to the Seaboard Air Line to the Wabash, there has been a definite investment trend on the part of other corporations into Seaboard securities. A block of the stock appeared recently in the portfolio of the Penn-rail Corporation. Holding of Seaboard shares have also been found in the lists of "investment trusts" that previously had failed to consider it with other low priced railroad issues.

TRAFFIC EXCHANGED

The logic of the Penn-rail investment in Seaboard is quite clear, inasmuch as the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Seaboard interchange a great deal of traffic. If it were the policy of the Pennsylvania management to go south of Washington and invade the southern territory, a natural alliance would be with the Seaboard. As is well known, the Pennsylvania company has an intimate relation with both the Wabash and the Lehigh valley. The Penn-rail Corporation has an important investment in the Pittsburgh and West Virginia, which it secured from the "Tollin interests" some months ago. It is understood there is some sort of string attached to this purchase and that, in the event of the fifth, or Wabash system, becoming effective the Pennsylvania would release it to the Wabash. But would retain it for its own traffic advantages in case the final determination is for only four eastern systems, of which the Pennsylvania would be the dominant member.

While the intimacy between Pennsylvania and Wabash is a close one, there has never been any indication that the former would release to the latter its investment in the Norfolk and Western. This constitutes one of its best investments, both on the side of traffic origination and of income, which the soft coal road, now paying regular and extra dividends in the amount of $12 a year per share turns over to the Pennsylvania. Just how the Wabash can carry out the interstate commerce commission's five party plan with out the Norfolk and Western is one of the unsolvable questions in a consolidation situation rapidly becoming more and more confused.

CHANGE IN SIGHT

With the dominance of the Van Sweringens in Missouri Pacific, it is believed in railroad circles that the present managerial relations between Wabash and Missouri Pacific may be changed, as there is a decided difference of opinion between the two interests as to methods that may develop when the plan for taking care of the accumulated Missouri preferred dividends comes to a head.

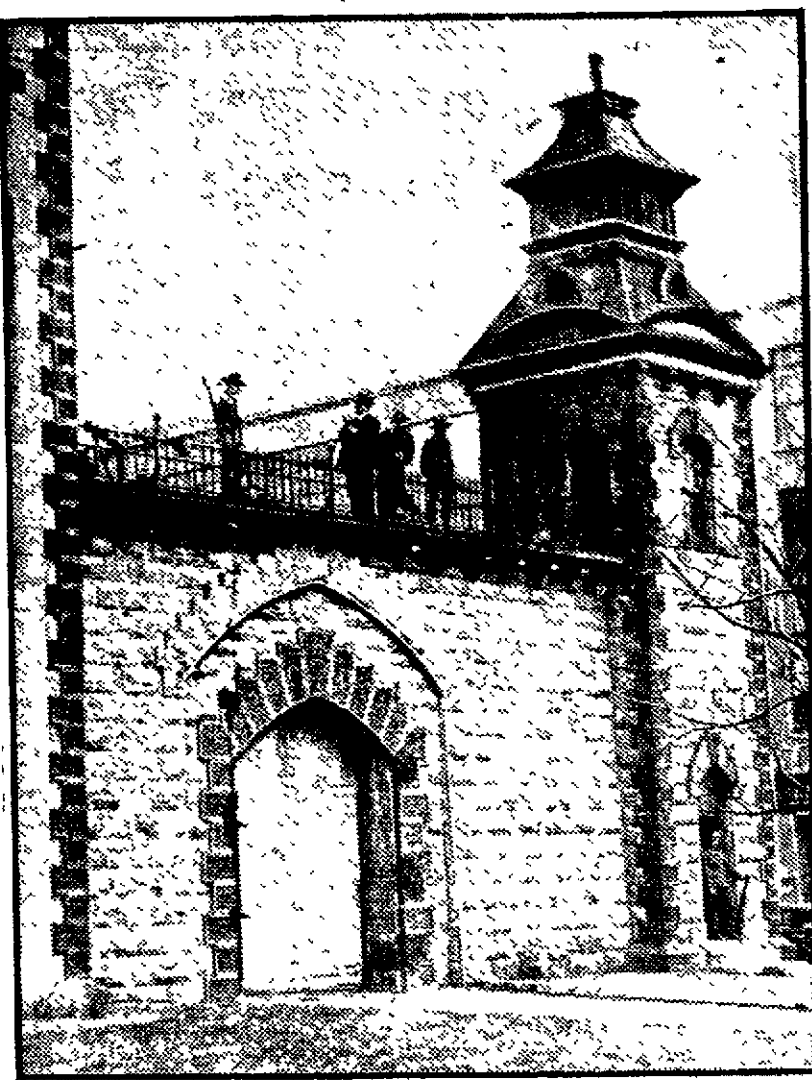

No indication has yet been given as to the attitude of the Van Sweringens toward the Western Pacific, controlled by Arthur Curtiss James, but in which the Missouri Pacific has a considerable indirect interest. This situation may change somewhat if the Western Pacific secures permission from the interstate commerce commission to build with the Great Northern railway, a 200-mile extension that would enter directly into competition with the Southern Pacific in the rich traffic territory now controlled by the latter.

NEW RULING MAY AFFECT INDUSTRY

made in order to get the full advantage of the income tax returns. The department of commerce on the other hand is equipped with commodity experts who it is believed will be able now to get a true picture of what is happening in different industries. The census of distribution will form a basis on which will be superimposed every year the knowledge gained "on an examination of the income tax returns."

Under the existing revenue law the president has the authority to execute order to make available the income tax returns to whatever department may need them. Rules are provided to maintain secrecy. Occasionally there is an important use by a government department for an individual tax return, but in the main, the value of the inspection is to learn what is happening in business.

The new executive order means that the government from now on will have a better understanding of the problems of modern business than it has ever had before. The results of this introspection will be made public in the form of statistical studies.

During the war American industry learned a good deal about itself that it didn't know before. The mobilization of industrial resources revealed many facts not previously known or rather not assembled for use. Ever since that time the department of commerce has been steadily trying to increase the sources of information, but business men are loath to answer questionnaires for fear they will get in the hands of the competitors. Secrecy will be maintained, however, with respect to all specific income tax returns, as the government's only motive is to get a broad picture of business in every field.

Rock Gardening Attracts Amateurs At Present Time

Rock gardening has become the new vogue. It offers so many possibilities for individual treatment that it is really no wonder that every one is eager to have the distinction of a rockery in their own garden. On even the smallest lot there is space to build a bit of interesting rock work, for the compactness of rock garden is one of its greatest charms.

On every home grounds there are natural opportunities for the development of a rock garden. A hillside, a ravine, or a roughly uneven piece of ground presents an ideal foundation for a rockery. A walk or driveway may divide vertical banks or irregularly receding layers of stratified rock. A terrace may be turned into a pleasing picture. Even on a level building site a mound of earth, edged and capped with rocks or a stone wall, makes an interesting rock garden.

The best rocks to use are those between the round or boulder type and the flat or flagstone type. Save the latter for walks and steps. Use rocks of different sizes, striving always for a natural effect. Too many small stones make the rock garden look artificial.

The soil should be composed of equal parts of vegetable fiber, garden loam, (which is free from loam), and coarse, sharp sand. Barnyard manure is too rich for rock plants.

Have the soil all prepared before construction is started. Lay the lower rocks first, placing them so there is more plant surface than rocks in the finished effect. Plants do not get food out of rock but from the soil, and these soil pockets are essential.

As each rock is laid, ram the soil back, around and beneath it; use no cement. Four factors in the success of rock work are: (1) Fill each stone so it is anchored firmly. Stones above help hold those below. (2) Slope horizontal crevices downward into bank. (3) Rocks uplifted let rain run down into crevice; tilt back 10 to 45 degrees or more. (4) Wall, set each higher rock back of the lower giving the face of the wall a back slope; thus giving plants water, air, light and room as illustrated in the diagram. Consider direction of ground drainage and lay stones across valleys to prevent soil washing away.

There are many dwarf shrubs and evergreens that are particularly effective in the rock garden. Taller growers are frequently used as borders or in the background, to create the necessary atmosphere of informality which the rockery demands.

Now comes the most interesting part—the flowering plants. In making your choice and placing them in the rockery, consider height, color harmonies, and whether or not the various plants are adapted to the place you have chosen for them.

For example, drooping plants would be best at the top where they could trail over the face of the rocks in a natural manner. They are also especially valuable for covering banks with their luxuriance of foliage.

In the small crevices the tufted plants with rosette of foliage and short flower stalk above, are most suitable. Creeping plants cushion the ground and carpet the walks with a mat of delightful color. Dwarf erect plants are good for flat spaces above the creeping sorts.

A rock garden may be combined with an informal lily pool, or a trickle of water may wind its way down among the rocks and lose itself in a miniature lake fringed with dainty flowering plants.

Not only will you find rock work new and fascinating, but a modern

Senators Beat Yankees For Seventh Straight Victory

WHITE SOX DOWN DETROIT AND MOVE INTO SECOND PLACE

Giants Lose First Game to Brooklyn; Hartnett Gets 2 Homers for Cubs

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The face of expert opinion that they would be lucky to finish any higher than seventh place, Walter Johnson's Washington Senators continue to set a dizzy pace to lead the American league.

No one can say, of course, where the Senators will finish but the fact remains that they are playing head-up baseball and winning consistently.

Yesterday's 6-5 victory over the New York Yankees was the Senators' ninth in eleven games and their seventh in a row. Washington took an early lead, thanks to some spectacular hitting by Shortstop Joe Cronin, and then held on to it in the face of a Yankee rally in the late frame.

The Chicago White Sox moved up to second place with a 9-7 triumph over Detroit. Carl Reynolds hit a home run, triple and single, his homer with Lyons on base in the seventh, really deciding the contest.

The St. Louis Browns could get only five hits off the offerings of Felix Jablonowski, American association recruit, and Cleveland won, 3 to 1.

Wildness on the part of MacFadden and Morris and fielding errors by O. Miller and Regan enabled the Philadelphia Athletics to score four runs in the ninth without a hit and beat the Boston Red Sox, 5-4.

The National league, the New York Giants lost their first game of the season, bowing to Brooklyn 6 to 4, when Harvey Hendrick doubled with the bases filled in the ninth. The defeat broke Bill Walker's string of 11 straight victories run up during the latter part of 1929 and this season.

Four home runs, two by Gabby Hartnett and the others by Charlie Root and Cliff Heathcote, enabled Chicago's Cubs to beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-4. Root was touched for 11 hits but tightened up in the pinches and fanned nine men.

St. Louis Cardinals took advantage of eight bases on balls and whiffed Cincinnati, 8 to 0. The Phillies, contrasting their hitting in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings to beat the Boston Braves, 7 to 4.

LOUGHRAN BEATEN AND THE FANS BOO

Philadelphia—(AP)—Tommy Loughran's heavy-weight championship aspirations have received another severe jolt, this time at the hands of Ernie Schaaf, 21-year-old Boston sailor boy.

Schaaf pelted his way to a referee's decision over the former light-heavyweight titleholder in a sensational 10-round battle here last night. One of the judges scored Loughran as the winner and the other voted for a draw.

The verdict of referee Leo Houck precipitated a noisy demonstration on the part of the fans. Police were called to disperse the crowd, which stormed about the center of the arena for several minutes after the final gong. Most of the fans declared Loughran should have received no worse than a draw.

BETA SOFTBALLERS LOSE TO GREEN BAY

A team of Green Bay Diamond league ball players, reinforced by several players from the Camp Henry Grass, team, took the measure of the Beta Sigma Phi team of Lawrence College, Appleton, at Joannes park, Green Bay, Sunday afternoon, to the tune of 7 to 0. "Ed" Plavin, Standard Oil twirler, allowed the college just one single, a bingle, a scratch hit by Gochauer in the second. Clem Collard scored the winning run in the first, a homer on an outfield error. A crowd of over 100 spectators witnessed the game.

COLLEGE BOXER IN SECOND PRO BATTLE
New York—(AP)—Allie Wolff, former eastern intercollegiate middle-weight champion from Penn State, makes his second appearance as a professional in a six round bout against George Deschner of Newark, N. J., at the Broadway arena tonight.

Lawrence Sponsors Girls' Track Meet Here May 3

Track and field meets for men are an everyday occurrence, but in this locality the first even of this kind for girls will be staged May 3, when high school girls of the Fox River valley and surrounding towns of Kaukauna, New London, Clintonville and others will compete in a high school play day.

Under the direction and supervision of the Lawrence college Women's Athletic association, headed by Mrs. John Mills, women's athletic director, the girls will be divided into well balanced teams and compete in various team games and relays. Returns from the invitations recently sent out indicate that more than 100 girls will attend the first event of the program, a luncheon at Russell Sage dormitory. Following the luncheon a mixer will be held from 1:15 to 1:45 o'clock.

At two o'clock the girls will be organized into teams and mixing games will be played until 2:30 when each girl will participate in games of baseball, volleyball, or soccer football. Following this all will compete in games of dodge ball, and medley and shuttle relays.

After these activities the girls will adjourn to the pool in the new Alexander gymnasium for a plunge, returning from there to an open house at Ormsby from 5 to 6 o'clock. The purpose of the meeting is to further the field of sports for women, and is being met with enthusiastic response by everyone.

NIGHT BASEBALL TO BE TRIED FRIDAY

Des Moines Team of Western League Will Experiment With New Method

Des Moines—(AP)—Taking a page from the book of experience of college football, Lee Keyser, president of the Des Moines baseball club of the Western league, Friday night will stage what minor league executives regard as the most forward-looking experiment in modern baseball.

He will send his demons against Wichita in the first game, except one, ever played at night. Lynn Mass, of the New England league, experimented with night baseball a few years ago but curious say its lighting system contained only about 50 per cent of the 42,000,000 candlepower which will flood the park here.

The experiment has attracted the attention of baseball celebrities from far and near, more than a score of widely known men of the baseball world will be in the stands.

Fans throughout the nation may obtain a description of the spectacle over 40 stations on the National Broadcasting company hookup while South America, South Africa, Australia and the far east will listen over a short wave broadcast from WGY Schenectady, N. Y.

Keyser anticipates general adoption of night baseball in all minor leagues if the experiment Friday is successful.

Track Meet Here May 3

Track and field meets for men are an everyday occurrence, but in this locality the first even of this kind for girls will be staged May 3, when high school girls of the Fox River valley and surrounding towns of Kaukauna, New London, Clintonville and others will compete in a high school play day.

Under the direction and supervision of the Lawrence college Women's Athletic association, headed by Mrs. John Mills, women's athletic director, the girls will be divided into well balanced teams and compete in various team games and relays. Returns from the invitations recently sent out indicate that more than 100 girls will attend the first event of the program, a luncheon at Russell Sage dormitory. ## A. A. CHAMPS NOW IN SIXTH PLACE

Kansas City Loses Second Game of Series to Columbus Senators

Chicago—(AP)—Kansas City, champion of the American association, like the world champion Philadelphia Athletics, and the National league champion Chicago Cubs, is experiencing difficulty in locating its stride this season.

The Blues today were in sixth place, with four victories and six defeats, and were two down to the Columbus Senators in the opening series, Columbus yesterday scored its second straight triumph. The Senators finished with an 11 to 4 decision.

Minneapolis uncorked the first triple play of the season, but lost its second straight to Indianapolis, 4 to 3, in the second inning. Emmor, Morse, Cotter and Mike Gonzales collaborated for the triple killing, but the Indians rallied late in the game to gain the edge.

Louisville was rained out of its contest with St. Paul, but remained in the leadership. Toledo and Milwaukee also were idle because of rain.

CHICAGO FLOCKS TO SEE GRIFFITHS

Windy City Favorite in Return Battle With Jack Gagnon Wednesday

Chicago—(AP)—At the rate tickets are being purchased for Wednesday night's show at the Chicago Stadium, not less than $50,000 worth of customers are expected to watch Jerry (Tuffy) Griffiths attempt to demonstrate he is one of the ranking heavyweights of the country, rather than just another young fellow who follows boxing for a living.

Griffiths, a great Chicago favorite, will meet Jack Gagnon, one of the "Boston sailors," who stopped him in six rounds early this month, creating the biggest upset of the indoor season. Less than 1,000 top price seats—$4.99 each—remain unsold, and all of the $1.10 seats are gone.

WANTS TOURNEY FOR SOUTHPAW GOLFERS

Platteville—(AP)—Fred L. Johns, secretary of the Platteville Golf club, wants someone to inaugurate a state tournament for southpaw golfers. Being of the left-handed variety, he says he wants to enter a tournament to determine the best southpaw golfer in the state.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
"T" of Portland says he has a $75,000 ball player for his league edification in the person of Buster Chatham, shortstop.

There are plenty of teams in the majors that need shortstops. Joe McCarthy left word with the Wrigley scouts on the coast to keep a sharp eye on the Duster.

Jack Johnson and Philadelphia Jack O'Brien boxed three rounds in Boston the other night. Just fooling.

Some of the modern heavyweights—Art Bell, superintendent of the Polo Grounds, has served the Giants for 40 years, starting as a bookkeeper.

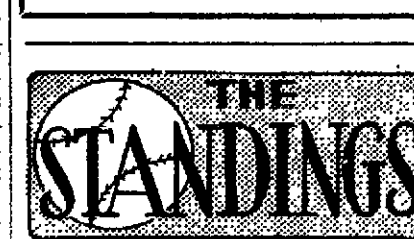

23 years ago McGraw won his first world's championship with Mike Donlin, Cy Seymour, Sandow Moritz and George Browne in the outfield.

McGann, Gilbert, Dahlin and Devin in the infield. Des Moines is not the only town to try night baseball. 15 years ago Cincinnati tried it. Be- fore the recent Kansas-Stanford track meet, Dick Templeton, Stanford coach, predicted the score would be 84 to 37 against his team. He missed it, though. The score was 84 112 to 26 11-12. Fairly close, however.

THIS ACCOUNTS FOR REASON A PITCHER WALKOPS A HOME RUN

Chicago—(AP)—Home run outbursts by the Chicago Cubs are a source of great satisfaction to northside fans, but promise to become expensive for a firm of watch manufacturers.

The concern offered a wrist watch for each home run by a major leaguer in either Cubs or White Sox parks and today was in debt twice to Gabby Hartnett who got a pair yesterday and owed one each to Cliff Heathcote and pitcher Charlie Root.

And Now Comes Chain Indoor Fight Palaces

BY WILBER WOOD
Copyright 1930
NEW YORK—A group of capitalists with leanings toward sport are laying preliminary plans for the creation of a chain of indoor arenas similar to Madison Square Garden. New York, Chicago and Los Angeles would be charter members of this chain.

Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Jr., with Jimmy Bronson as his chief adviser, is understood to be at the head of the New York group. The writer is not permitted to reveal at this time the names of the Chicagoans and Californians interested in the proposition, but it is not violating a confidence to state that they stand high in the business world and are favorably regarded by the public.

The New York representatives are in Chicago conferring with the sponsors of the movement. In that city, and from there members of the two groups will move westward shortly for a conference with the California delegation in a Nebraska city.

"The Young Architects," by Stanley Brown, is a unique book on architecture. In a series of story sketches the gradual development of architecture in this country is given.

WOMEN SHOULD LEARN USES OF MAGNESIA

To women who suffer from nausea, or so called "morning sickness," this simple measure is proving a blessing. Most nurses know it and it is advised by leading specialists.

Prepare a small quantity of finely cracked ice—about a wineglassful. Pour over it a teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Sip slowly until the mixture is gone or you are entirely relieved. It is seldom necessary to repeat the dose to end sick stomach or any inclination to vomit. Its anti-acid properties enable Phillips Milk of Magnesia to give immediate relief in heartburn, sour stomach, gas. Its mild but effective laxative action assures regular bowel movement. Used as a mouthwash it helps prevent acid erosion and tooth decay during expectancy.

With every bottle of Phillips Milk of Magnesia, come full directions for its many uses. All drug stores have the 25c and 50c sizes. Demand the genuine, endorsed by doctors for over 50 years.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of the Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor, Charles H. Phillips, since 1873.

GOVERNMENT WILL STAND AWAY FROM RADIO EDUCATION

Hands-off Policy Adopted by Uncle Sam in This System

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press Washington—(CPA)—A hands-off policy likely will be adopted by the federal government with respect to the use of radio in a national system of education.

It now appears to be definitely assured that the bureau of education of the department of the interior will not attempt to assume responsibility in a movement to have the entire nation sit as a single class, getting tuition from master teachers via the radio. Contending views on the parts of both the teaching profession and the radio industry make inadvisable such a course.

Step by step, the advisory committee on education by radio, appointed by Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, last fall, has attacked its problem of ascertaining the part the federal government should play in education by radio. In its latest report it asserts that the consensus of opinion is that the federal government should be the research and advisory agency, rather than the central directing force.

AGREE ON WORTH
Educators and broadcasters alike are agreed that broadcasting for schools can be made educationally useful. But the two factions have been unable to agree as to how it shall be done. The teachers are inclined to distrust the commercial motives of the stations, and the broadcasters, with their lust of showmanship, cannot appreciate the types of educational programs proposed by the teachers.

This new report states that 28 state superintendents and commissioners of education canvassed by the advisory committee see great educational possibilities in the radio field, but believe the federal government should not be the guiding force. Twenty of the total thought the federal government should conduct research and supply data for the two great national networks and the independent stations, and let the stations put it on themselves. Eight felt the government should lend financial support, so that the programs would not carry advertising matter to defray the costs of their presentation.

The present educational broadcasts are considered to be but a beginning of what will come later. Of the total canvassed, 13 said there was some value in present broadcasts, 12 were uncertain, and three thought they were of no value. All except one agreed that broadcasting for schools could be made educationally useful.

Last month the committee reported there are "grave doubts" as to whether the common ground between broadcasters and educators ever will be reached. It said there were "cross purposes and misunderstandings." To obtain the benefits of the large audiences, higher power, and preferred wavelengths which the commercial stations offer, coupled with the educational skill of the teaching group, concessions must be made by both sides, and they have not been, the secretary was informed.

KNOKE PLANTS 100 ACRES OF CABBAGE

18 Pounds of Early Variety Already Planted by "Cabbage King"

Shiocton—E. A. Knoke, the cabbage king of Wisconsin, will raise 100 acres of cabbage this season and 25 acres of cauliflower. He already has planted 18 pounds of early and late cabbage seed and will plant more from time to time.

He is now working his cabbage fields with a sulky spring tooth between 12 and 14 feet wide, drawn by a large powerful tractor. He does this at intervals to have weed seed germinate, to kill the weeds, to airate the soil and mix the humus with the soil. Before planting he expects to plow the fields, and to mix commercial fertilizer with the soil. He will plant his cabbage with a planter consisting of three units drawn with a tractor.

Early cabbage and cauliflower. Mr. Knoke will harvest 75 acres of sugar beets this season, 25 acres of cucumbers, 40 acres of corn and soy beans, 40 acres of oats seeded with alfalfa and red clover, and 25 acres of sweet clover hay.

With all of his other farm activities, Mr. Knoke is now engaged in laying, and relaying five miles of drain tile. As the outlets of some of his mains layed last year were not low enough, the lines clogged up to the extent that he is obliged to relay the lines.

Mr. Knoke has disposed of the most of his last year's crop of cauliflower preserved on the farm in 70 gallon casks. The balance of the crop will be gone very soon.

Every Stomach Sufferer Has It—Tanlac Corrects It

The tongue and mouth is nothing more or less than the upper end of your stomach and intestines. You need Tanlac to correct this condition. Taken before meals Tanlac prevents formation of gas and acids so there is no sourness, bloating or distress. Tanlac helps regulate the bowels, too, and so with your system free of poisonous toxins and acids see how your breath is immediately sweetened. Get a bottle today at your druggist. ### ALL CABBAGE NOT INJURED BY FROST

Early Variety in Some Sections of County Come Through Unharmed

BY W. F. WINSEY

Shiocton—Herman Knorr planted two pounds of early cabbage seed on potato ground on April 12. The plants are just beginning to show above ground and apparently were not injured by the late frosts. Before planting the seed he sowed no commercial fertilizer on the bed but will now feed the plants with lime and other fertilizers. He is under contract to raise 5 acres of early cabbage. He expects to raise a total of 30 acres of cabbage.

Mr. Knorr is the grower who saved his healthy plants in his cabbage bed last spring after one-third of the plants had been destroyed by maggots and after he had ordered 100,000 plants from another grower. After he saved his own plants he sold more than he bought to other growers who were short.

To kill the maggots and to prevent their further spread, Mr. Knorr acted on the recommendation of the writer who had seen the treatment applied on Brown-co cabbage beds by specialists of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, and that of W. D. Brownson, Smith-Hughes instructor of the Shiocton high school.

Mr. Knorr saved all the healthy plants in his bed and also those that were not damaged beyond cure. Since he succeeded, he has received inquiries from a large number of cabbage growers who wish to know more about his method than they found in the papers.

Mr. Knorr declares that if he had applied the treatment earlier he would have saved all of his plants, and he is ready for an early battle this season if maggot flies show up in his cabbage beds.

CONDUCT SURVEY OF WOLF VALLEY

Inspection Is Sponsored by War Department—Must Finish in June

Neenah—A survey of the upper Wolf river valley, for the purpose of formulating plans for the improvement of the streams in the interest of navigation, flood control, power development and irrigation, is now under way.

The inspection of the valley is by the war department of the United States, with Herbert Doherty, acting chief of engineers of the federal government, in charge. The report of the survey is to be ready to be forwarded to the war department office by June 30.

The surveying engineer has promised that his report will contain a recommendation of the Association for the Relief of High Water, to the effect that the federal government should take immediate steps for a flood control plan for the district.

The survey made by the department two years ago emphasized that a flood control project should be a government venture. A thorough flood control program, it is estimated, will cost over $2,000,000 and that figure is beyond the means and resources of the land owners themselves.

Congressman Florian Lampert, Oshkosh; Senator John J. Blaine, and Congressman George J. Schneider of Appleton, have taken an interest in the matter and are helping to secure government attention to the situation.

REHABILITATION OF CUT-OVER LAND IS BIG LAKES PROBLEM

20,000,000 Acres of This Kind Available in Three States

Minneapolis—(P)—The biggest problem of the lake region—Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan—lies in the economic rehabilitation of the millions of acres of cut over and burned over land. Dr. Raphael Zon, declared today in an address before the American Forestry association, "Dr. Zon, who is director of the Lake States Forest Experiment station, said the three states possess about 20,000,000 acres of this character, which, he asserted, generally have little chance of being utilized for agricultural purposes.

Tracing the history of causes which have brought about the problem of these lands, Dr. Zon said that only the automobile has opened up these wildernesses to people and is awakening them to the need of a solution.

"The original forest of the Lake States region covered some eight million acres of land in the state of Minnesota, and nearly three-fourths of the entire land area," Dr. Zon said. "In the north it was a forest of pines, spruce, balsam fir, hemlock, white cedar, and tamarack. The tree that gave character and distinction to the whole northern forest was the white pine. The southern part of the region was a forest of oaks—red and white—walnut, hickories, and ashes. The remains of this hardwood forest are still preserved as woodlots, dotting the farms of southern Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

"Before the Revolutionary War this was the territory inhabited by the Chippewas, the Menominee, and the Huron Indians. The early American settlers came after the Revolutionary war. They came to settle on the land—the timber itself had no immediate value.

"Since 1850, however, with the rapid settlement of the north central and prairie states, soon after the Civil war, there arose a need for lumber and the forests of the Lake States region were the chief source of supply," Dr. Zon went on. "In less than 50 years the lumber industry has swept away practically all of the regional eighty-five million acres of forest. In its wake it left a sad heritage of millions upon millions of acres of desolated land, but at the same time it helped to make the region from an obscure commonwealth of lowly rank to high positions among the leading states of the union.

"The biggest problem of the region is that of economic rehabilitation of the millions of acres of cut-over and burned land. There are, in all, some twenty millions acres in Michigan, six million acres in Minnesota, and four million acres in Wisconsin.

"Serious as the problem of the cut-over and tax-delinquent land is, Dr. Zon asserted. "First, it is generally admitted that it is futile to hope to absorb these lands into agriculture. Second, jack pine and poplar, the pioneer trees which come after the fires, are finding increasingly widening usefulness particularly for pulp and paper. Third, the automobile opened up this vast wilderness and revealed to millions of tourists and nature lovers the beauties of the lakes and streams and its northern landscape. The revenues from the recreation industries alone exceed the revenues from the lumber industries at its peak.

"As a result of these new economic forces, there is a great awakening toward forest fire protection, forest planting, acquisition of forest lands for county, state, and national forests, modification of the present system of forest taxation. It brought a new appreciation of the forests as a solution for tax delinquency, maintenance of the wood-using industries, and recreational opportunities.

THE BIG SHOT by FRANK L. PACKARD

Chapter 20
THE WOMAN BURGLAR
THE areaway, Enid discovered, separated the Murkman mansion from a towering apartment house.

It was very narrow--so narrow that the only justification she could think of for its existence was that it might perhaps furnish light and air to the rooms of the larger building. Thanks to the telephone directory, she had found Murkman's house easily. It was, as she had thought, just a little west of Park Avenue, and she was quite sure no one had seen her when, a moment ago, she had stepped into the areaway from the street.

Now she moved silently along it searching for the basement window. It was very dark. She was glad of that. Certainly no one passing by on the street could see her now. Here and there above her were lighted windows in the apartment houses, but they did not dispel the lower shadows--and the Murkman house naturally was in blackness.

Those lighted windows! She halted suddenly and looked up at them. Suppose someone were watching from one of those windows! Her lips tightened. Yes, she was afraid--afraid of everything to night!

She had been afraid when she had left Martha Debbins' house, and more afraid the moment she had entered this areaway.

She stood for a full minute scanning the windows. There was no one at any of them.

She went on again, hugging close up against the wall of the Murkman mansion, but so far as she could make out in the gloom, it was not until she was near the extreme end of the areaway that she came upon the basement window she was looking for--and then only to find herself peering down at it in sudden dismay. It was quite accessible because its sill was practically on a level with the areaway--but it was protected by an iron grill!

Perhaps this wasn't the only basement window--perhaps there was another. She went on down the full length of the house. There was no other window. She came back and stood staring helplessly at the iron grill. There wasn't any mistake--at least, she had not made any. That was what the code message said, "Basement window areaway." And this was the only one there was--one with an iron grill!

Under the sloped brim of her hat she passed her hand nervously across her forehead. What was she to do?

Mechanically she bent down to examine the more closely, and, as she touched it, she drew her breath in sharply. It was loose, and not only loose, but now, as she put a little pressure upon it, it came away readily in her hand.

She smiled at herself thinly. Of course! She was stupid! This had all been arranged for her. She lifted the grill just enough to one side to free the window, and tried the window itself. It opened inward--easily. Nor did it make any sound. Well-oiled hinges, of course! Whoever had prepared the way had left nothing undone!

A vague wonder came to her. Knowing the location and combination of the wall safe, and with the means of entry into the house already provided for, it seemed strange that the safe itself should still have been left untouched merely because the house had not been entirely unoccupied until now. Surely it could have been looted without a sleeping household, say, being any the wiser for it!

Such things had been done often enough. Why not here? There must be a very good reason for it, of course, but she did not know what it was. She probably never would know. She could not ask Roy!

She was down on her hands and knees now, working herself in feet first through the window, but her eyes were constantly scanning the house. It was not quite so easy as it had appeared to be.

The basement window was oblong in shape, and, though amply long enough, was hardly two feet in height. She could scarcely squeeze through--as it was, Martha's hat, with its monstrous brown brain caught on the pavement and was nearly pulled from her head.

Her feet, just as she was about to let go and drop, touched the basement floor below. She stood up. The window sill was just a little above her shoulders. She reached out and, as well as she could, pulled the grill back on the sill. It did not fit perfectly by any means, but certainly no one chancing in the areaway would notice that it was out of place. Then she closed the window.

It was inky black inside--almost as black as it had been in the "bird cage" last night. But, tonight, she had come provided against that; and now the flash light which she had purchased on her way across town sent its round white ray inquisitively about her. She was in a cellar, of course--concrete-floored. And, what alone concerned her, directly in front of her were the stairs leading to the floor above.

She mounted these rapidly, and emerged into what the flash light enabled to see was a sort of pantry. Here there were several doors. She opened the one that obviously gave on the front portion of the house, and, stepping forward, found herself in the rear of what was obviously the main hallway.

And now she stood still for an instant, listening. There was no sound. There was such an utter absence of sound that the silence was oppressive and heavy. She bit suddenly at her lips. Of course there was no sound!

She went on again, the white ray lancing the darkness, pointing the way. It was a big hall, a big house. There were beautiful rugs on the floor. The doors of the room opening into the hall were closed. Such details she absorbed unconsciously--but she was not concerned with her immediate surroundings. The library was on the second floor, the floor above.

Her first steps, as she began to mount the main stairway, startled her, for the silence in the house was suddenly broken. There was no carpet on the stairs. The stairs were bare, polished wood. Her footsteps clattered. Instinctively she began to tiptoe.

But that was stupid--absurd! She bit at her lips again in vexation. Were her own footsteps going to send her into a panic? People out on the street couldn't hear the occupants of the house every time the latter went up and down the stairs, could they? Well, then?

She ascended the remaining stairs in a natural manner--but the beam of light that played ahead of her wavered a little, and was not quite so steady as before.

Disquiet had come upon her more strongly than ever. She tried to tell herself reassuringly that there wasn't anything to fear--the worst of it was over, now that she had got safely into the house; and that it wouldn't take much longer--just a few minutes needed to open the wall safe--and then she would be out of the house again. A tremendous little smile came. Yes, she knew all that, but it did not alter the fact that she was desperately afraid just the same.

Where was the library? Her flash light ray was darting up and down the hallway of the second floor now. The doors here, too, were closed. None of them was fastened--the keys, she noticed, had all been left in the locks on the inside. And then, finally, after an instant's pause on the threshold, she entered a room at the rear of the hallway.

This was it.

GERMAN FISH LEARN TO READ
German fish have been taught to read their German A B C, according to professors in a Berlin university. The swimmers were found to be bright pupils. First they were taught to distinguish colors by placing food in variously colored bags. The fish learned to swim to the bag containing their favorite food, and to open it by pulling a string. The savants then attached letters of the alphabet to bags, which were all of the same color. Eventually the fish were able to pick out the correct bag by the letter, and even to distinguish the letter R from B.

SCHOLA CANTORUM GOING TO OFFER BIBLICAL OPERA

One of Saint-Saens Masterpieces, "Samson and Delilah," Selected

The majestic and inspiring opera which the Schola Cantorum and soloists will present at Lawrence Memorial chapel Friday evening is one of Saint-Saens masterpieces and is popular, both in operatic and concert form.

Samson and Delilah, a biblical opera in three acts, with text by Ferdinand Lemaire, first performed in its entirety at Weimar, Dec. 2, 1877. The score had been completed in 1872, and parts of the work were given in Paris in 1875, but it was not until 1877 that the whole opera was performed under the direction of Eduard Lassen. The work was successful in other cities outside of France during the next few years, and 20 years after its completion it was finally produced in a grand manner at the Paris Opera.

The French librettists diverged quite widely from the biblical narrative, laying more stress upon the love interest and its disastrous consequences. This gave opportunity for a more dramatic treatment, and in the hands of a master the opportunity has been improved by the use of striking leading motives and an orchestral background of vivid coloring and brilliant descriptive power.

The first act reveals a public square in the city of Gaza, wherein a crowd of Hebrews in captivity give voice to their despair. Samson, who is among them, gives them assurance of his help and their ultimate deliverance, but Abimelech, satrap of Gaza, derides their supplications. Samson denounces him as a blasphemer; and when Abimelech draws his sword the hero wrests it from him as he calls for help. The Philistines respond to the cry, but are dismayed before Samson's bravery.

In the third scene, which is laid before the Temple of Dagon, the High Priest, standing by Abimelech's body, urges the Philistines to avenge his death. Hereupon a messenger arrives with news that the Israelites, led by Samson, and filled with new courage, are on the march; and the High Priest utters his curse against them and their victorious leader. The Hebrews return, followed by Samson, singing choruses of rejoicing. In the next scene Delilah enters, followed by the Philistine women. The temptation of Samson commences in the fascinating dances of the Priestesses of Dagon, wherein Delilah takes part. She seeks in a beautiful song of Spring to ensnare him by the spell of her beauty.

The second act reveals Delilah, richly clad, at the door of her dwelling. She utters a passionate invocation to love to aid her in accomplishing Samson's downfall; and in a highly dramatic duet which follows, the High Priest tells her of the disaster which has befallen her people and urges her to strongest efforts. The next scene is of great beauty and is worked out in a strikingly dramatic manner. Samson enters, disturbed and troubled; and Delilah, by every means in her power, tries to make him a captive to her charms. In the midst of an approaching storm Samson ultimately declares his love. When the storm breaks furiously, she entices him into her house, which is at once stealthily surrounded by the Philistine soldiery.

In the third act Samson is shown blinded and in slavery, grinding at a mill, while the Hebrews sing a mournful chorus. Samson waits the loss of his sight. The Philistines enter and remove him and the scene is changed to the interior of Dagon's Temple. Here a festival in honor of the god is in progress, which gives opportunity for a fascinating ballet, the music of which is rich in Eastern color. Samson is taunted by the High Priest, who tells him that if he will restore his sight they will forsake the worship of Dagon. Delilah also mocks his helpless condition and reveals the deep hatred which she had concealed under a simulated passion. Finally Samson is ordered to offer oblation to Dagon. He is led by a boy to a position between the two pillars which support the massive roof. With a final prayer to the Lord to give him a momentary return of his old power, he exerts all his strength and breaks the pillars, whereat the Temple falls amid the cries of the Philistines who are buried beneath its ruins.

LETTER WITH "FREAK" ADDRESS IS DELIVERED

A letter addressed as follows: "Hundreds of Thousands of Owners and Not One Cent Spent for Service, Appleton, Wis." was mailed at the Appleton post office at 10:00 on the morning of a day last week and was delivered three hours later to the Finkle Electric shop on E. College-ave. The title used in the address is the slogan used in advertising a refrigerator handled by the Finkle company.

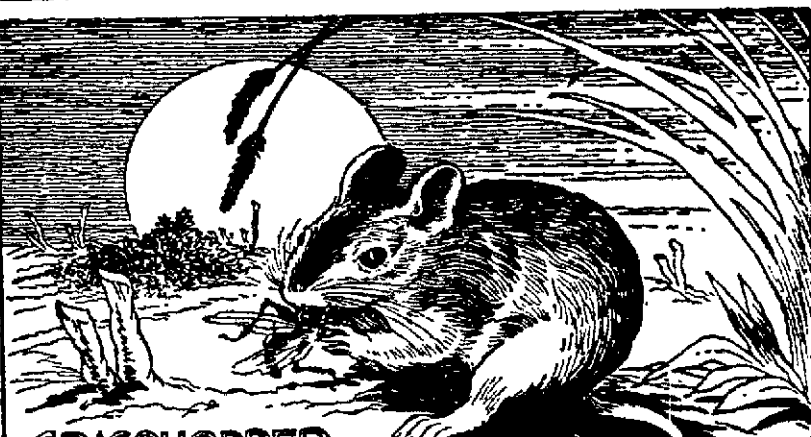

Recently the postal department issued an order saying that letters with "freak" addresses are no longer to be delivered by the department but they are to be returned to their sender, if it is known or otherwise to the dead letter office. The federal department pointed out that many citizens are just taking advantage of the persistence of the postal clerks in attempting to decipher these "freak" addresses.

WOMEN VOTERS HEAR SPEAKERS DISCUSS OUTSTANDING ISSUES

Congressman Gives Them Credit for Progress of Maternity Bill

Louisville, Ky. —(AP)—Home problems — unemployment, the woman worker in the southern cotton mills, the pending maternity and infancy legislation—today challenged the interest of the tenth anniversary convention of the League of women voters.

From Washington, where the maternity bill was reported favorably to the senate and now awaits action by the house, Representative William South Dakota, yesterday gave this message to the league.

"If it ever goes through, it will be because you women are back of it and for no other reason."

An entire session today was concentrated on urging the re-enactment of the bill under which the children's bureau administered a fund of $1,400,000 annually for maternity and infancy care in the various states. The legislation lapsed in June, 1929.

Dr. Broadus Mitchell of Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, Md., appealed to the women voters to better conditions in southern cotton mills through legislation. He said that workers in mill villages were "virtually without voice, either political or economical," and that they suffered from "long hours and low pay."

Speaking on unemployment, Dr. William Levenson of Antioch college, Yellow Springs, Ohio, advocated a government tax on industries for setting up "an employment insurance fund," thereby, he said, "putting the cost of unemployment on industry. He predicted that industry, to avoid paying this cost, would study methods of avoiding unemployment as scientifically as it now staples with production problems."

Conference action later in the week was predicted on the London disarmament conference, discussed by Chester H. Rowell of Berkeley, Calif., and Miss Josephine Schmitt of New York City, member of the special women's deputation officially received by the conference.

Rowell advocated support of the three-power and five-power agreements "as a step forward."

"There can be no substantial disarmament without political commitments," he argued.

Miss Schmitt reported, "A beginning has been made. Other international conferences will follow," and added that women must decide what they intend to do about future conferences.

SOCIAL INTEGRITY NEEDED TO BANISH CRIME, PROF SAYS

Chattanooga, Tenn. —(AP)—The opinion that "if we want to get rid of crime, every citizen must be educated in social integrity, a sense of social honor and have inculcated in him a reasonable degree of public spirit," was expressed in an address prepared for delivery here today by Dr. Charles A. Ellwood, professor of sociology in the University of Mississippi.

Dr. Ellwood was a speaker at a luncheon arranged in connection with the University of Chattanooga's first annual institute of justice. George W. Wickham, chairman of President Hoover's law enforcement commission, will address the institute tonight.

"There are three reasons why our modern system of education fails to prevent crime," Dr. Ellwood said. "It does not produce social and political intelligence in the mass of our citizens. It fails to inculcate a sense of social integrity which is directed to developing a sense of honor. It does not include a public spirit—an unselfish devotion to the welfare of city and nation."

He charged there is a "demoralizing lack of public spirit in the majority of our citizens."

Addressing the opening session of the institute, last night, Huston Thompson, former chairman of the federal trade commission, declared that "unless business is protected by anti-trust laws sympathetically interpreted and administered so that competition can exist and monopoly be destroyed, we will have constantly recurring panics and greater and greater economic concentration."

FAREWELL TO ROBBER COSTS PAL LIBERTY

Vancouver, B. C. —(AP)—Ralph Humphries' farewell to William Siegmund, who has been committed to stand trial for robbing the Royal Bank of Canada last December, cost him his freedom.

Humphries, who had been a spectator in court, walked over to Siegmund and placed his arm across the prisoner's shoulders after the session yesterday.

Ira C. Jones, the crown's chief witness, turned as he was leaving the room and saw Humphries.

"Why, that's the other holdup man," he declared.

Humphries was charged with robbery with violence.

BOARD OF CONTROL NEEDS $15,000,000 IN NEXT 10 YEARS

Necessity for Funds Is Reiterated by Col. John Hannan, Chairman

Madison —(AP)—Reiteration for the board of control's need for $15,000,000 over the next 10 years in order to provide properly for the state's charitable and penal institutions was made today by Col. John J. Hannan, chairman of the board. He outlined the needs while endorsing the plan of the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work for a state-wide committee to study state institutions.

"The pleas of the board of control have been unheeded for 20 years," he said. "The failure to provide for the charitable and penal institutions cannot rest with any group of persons, but may be said to have suffered for the lack of public interest. From the beginning these institutions have been regarded as stepchildren of the state government, and appropriations have been for the bare necessities."

"The appointment of the survey committee evinces no sound public interest and I hope that it will result in appropriations for the institutions."

Colonel Hannan feels that appropriations must come either at $1,000,000 a year for 10 years or $4,000,000 for the next biennium and $1,000,000 a year for the following decade of the state is to offer proper care for its prisoners and unfortunates.

The prison program he outlines is: A woman's prison should be built at Taycheedah and removed from Waupun, a large and adequate hospital unit should be built at the state prison as Waupun, and a separate unit of the Central State hospital for the Criminal Insane should be built to care for the criminal feeble-minded. The two additional wards planned for the criminal insane should be supplemented by two more, he believes.

Rather than build additional cell-houses at Waupun, Col. Hannan favors a new prison of a different type with a large farming unit. This, he says, would keep the idle hands busy.

For the civil insane Col. Hannan holds that the various hospitals are overcrowded and the state no longer provides the intent of the law which is to care for chronic patients two years before sending them to county asylums. Due to overcrowding, these patients now receive state treatment for only nine months.

"In all probability, these hospitals which must provide for occupational therapy facilities for rehabilitation, should be projected."

For the feeble minded, Col. Hannan recommends that the Union Grove hospital, planned for 1,500 patients, but built to care for only 500, should be expanded.

He charged there is a "demoralizing lack of public spirit in the majority of our citizens."

Addressing the opening session of the institute, last night, Huston Thompson, former chairman of the federal trade commission, declared that "unless business is protected by anti-trust laws sympathetically interpreted and administered so that competition can exist and monopoly be destroyed, we will have constantly recurring panics and greater and greater economic concentration."

Sidelights Of Kohler Trial

Sheboygan —(AP)—George Washington Leberman, chairman of county public property, takes a proprietary interest in "his" courthouse—especially since it has been dignified by the trial of a governor.

"I was going to have a new courthouse built on this present site," he said. "But with the old courthouse a scene of such historical importance as Governor Kohler's trial, I guess I'll have to build an office building at the end of the lot and preserve the old building." The structure is 65 years old.

While about the only modern thing in the courthouse is running water, it does have one other ultra-modern device. An electric water cooler bubbles ice spring water for patrons and participants at the trial.

The Kohler jury is a white-collared organization now. On the first day of the trial one former member appeared wearing an army shirt. Then he finally was drafted for service, he changed to a white shirt.

In contrast to his sober demeanor during the first part of the trial Governor Kohler smiled frequently yesterday as letters and telegrams considered important evidence by the state were rejected.

George Meyer, Governor Kohler's private secretary, became known as the "silent witness." Meyer was on the stand for hours yesterday but the time was mainly occupied by attorney's arguments. All he did was identify a few letters and telegrams.

The girls' industrial school, now at Milwaukee, but to be moved to Oconomowoc must receive $400,000 more if it is to produce its maximum effect, he says. There is $340,000 left of the original appropriation for the new building left, and plans are being prepared, although additional money is necessary.

The last legislature gave $800,000 for the biennium to the board of control, and $240,000 went to imperative needs, Col. Hannan said.

The first meeting of the social conference committee on conditions will be held during the week of May 12, according to Aubrey Williams, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work.

PLANES HEAVIER THAN AIR TO LINK CITIES

Washington —(AP)—The first heavy-lift airplane line over the Atlantic ocean is proposed by the French Aeropostale company.

Toulouse, France, will be connected with Buenos Aires, Argentina, by the service, according to plans reported to the department of commerce by W. L. Flinger, Paris trade commissioner.

This route is in existence, but steamers which have plied between Dakar, Africa, and Natal, Brazil, will be removed in favor of seaplane "ships" which are expected to cut the travel time in half to four days.

Insurrection of the winds "in the near future" will give wings to the line between the two points where Africa and South America are closest together.

The French Aeropostale company is France's principal operator and has carried on the South American service with planes flying from Toulouse through Barcelona, Tangier and Dakar in the old world and from Natal to Buenos Aires.

Extensions in South America are planned to carry a line from Natal to French Guiana and the French West Indies.

NORDIGS PROVIDE MOST OPPOSITION TO CENSUS TAKERS

Enumerators Express Amazement at Certain Attitudes in Country

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
New York—(CPA)—Census rebels are not bewildered and recalcitrant foreigners, but, for the most part, hard-boiled nordics who, for some reason or other, have worked up a blazing hostility to Uncle Sam's fiftieth decennial count of his citizens.

In a batch of ten stubborn and secretive individuals who will be asked here today, there is one foreigner. Similarly, other instances of mulishness on the part of the populace reveals literate, old-stock Americans in the kicking role.

This writer has talked to five different census takers and, without exception, they have expressed amazement at a widespread childish attitude over the "meddling" of the government in private affairs. One of these enumerators, who worked on the previous census said he was meeting resistance ten times as great as on the earlier job. Asked whether this opposition appeared to be due to a desire to cover up bootlegging or some other illicit enterprise, he replied that the bootleggers were good-natured about it and found some easy "out" in recording their occupation. The kickers, he said, appeared to be opinionated people who, for reasons which he could not explain, had developed a poisonous dislike of any and all government activities.

FIND NEW RADICALS

"Have you found that these people are apt to be communists or radicals of some kind?" he was asked.

"No. In fact, we have been surprised to find how little radical sentiment there is. Once in a while we strike a soap boxer, who wants to deliver an oration against capitalism, but these people are not hostile to the census. They seem to realize that it is a necessary scientific job."

"Do you find that the hostility is confined to any particular age group?"

"Yes, I should say that we meet the most resistance from men and women below 35, for whom this is the first census. Older people seem to take it philosophically. I can't make much out of it, except that the younger generation seems to have some foolish idea that this is an intrusion. The government blank requests the filling out of the blank—it doesn't command it—and the form

Pastor Convicted of Shooting

is simplified to the greatest possible degree. I can't see for the life of me why anyone should get mad about it."

"Have you had many kicks about the question as to radio ownership?"

"We have had some, but the explanation that the government must have this information to work out air channels and apportion broadcasting facilities usually suffices."

"One young fellow running a gasoline station gave me a great song and dance about government job holders complicating business. 'I'm just as good an American as anybody,' he said, 'but if the government doesn't get off our back and stop butting in and regulating everything, they'll wreck the country.' Of course that hasn't anything to do with the census, but this element seems to have gone hog wild on the idea of too much regulation of private affairs and has stupidly confused the census with this aversion.

"I've lived here all my life and know lots of people and like to gossip about neighborhood affairs. The last census was like old home week, but it's different this time. I've had so many doors slammed in my face that I feel like a panhandler."

Queen Mary's automobile has been equipped with a musical tooter. If a pedestrian were struck by the royal car he would be in an embarrassing position should the tooter play the national anthem.

LITTLE THEATRE TOURNEY NEARING

Approach of Event Promises Signs of Spring at Waldorf Theatre

BY STEPHEN RATHBUN
Dramatic Editor of the New York Sun

New York—(CPA)—There are, or soon will be, signs of spring at the Waldorf theatre in 50th-st. It is in that playhouse that the eighth annual little theatre tournament will blossom next Monday. Manager Walter Hartwig was busy today selecting judges and doing the other thousand and one things connected with preparations for the week's grind.

The first night's bill will be acted by little theatre groups of the borough of Manhattan. The bills for the next two nights will be presented by local and suburban groups. The other two nights will be participated in by players from North Carolina, Mississippi, Missouri, Illinois and Rhode Island, not to mention Albany and Buffalo.

The week following there will take place in the same theatre the first annual full-length play tournament. Five plays will be presented. Amateur companies from Chicago and St. Louis, as well as three companies from Manhattan, will compete for the theatre arts monthly cup. Copyright, 1930 By the New York SUN

RARE OPPORTUNITY

A little Jewish boy was caught by the dangling ropes of a balloon at the country fair. When he was being carried aloft the crowd stood aglance as he hung downward, the father cried:

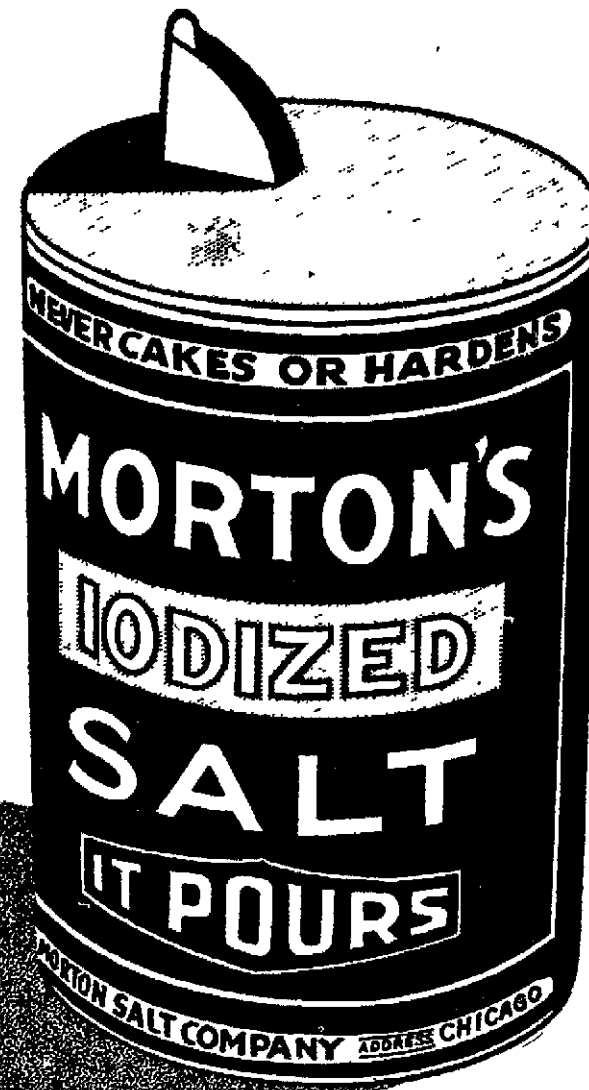

"Ikey, Ikey, throw down some of our business cards."—Tit-Bits.

Lisbon (P)—The Portuguese Auto mobile club has found that the country possesses one car for each 550 inhabitants, the total of automobiles being 23,149. A reduction in the motoring license fee has stimulated buying of cars.
